COMMENTS.

Crystal Palace have had a lot of misfortune, for after investing substantial sums to secure experienced players likely to take them somewhere near promotion, they have had several players injured, and the team has seldom been kept together for two or three games. Like most of the teams we have met this season, however, they have a strong side out for to-day's tussle. Two or three of the players we are meeting for the first time. Crilly and Thoms were two of three players secured from Derby County's promotion team, but neither has had the best of luck at Selhurst. Butler was with Chorley last season, Charlton is the former Exeter back, and Tot Walsh, is the lively leader we have met in the colours of Bristol City. The side looks much better than that turned out in recent games, but we hope to bag another brace of points as the result of a good clean game. Our team is unchanged, and we are sure the supporters will give them a special cheer for the success at Newport.

Will ticket-holders please note that it is necessary that all tickets should be produced for the inspection of the gate man. We are sure that our supporters will respect the authority of the gate man in this matter.

THE CHORUS

We have been asked to include the "chorus" in the match card so that supporters will be able to join in all round the ground. The accentuation will be gathered from the chorus that is to operate to-day.

PICTUREDROME.

"GENTLEMEN PREFER BLONDES."

To-night, the picturisation of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" will be shown. As the author of the novel and the stage play, Anita Loos has achieved a delightful satirical comedy.

"ROBERT OF ST. JOHN."

Next week's attraction is Mr. E. Richard, who presents "Robert of St. John," the famous Alsatian film and stage dog. "Bob" demonstrates the usefulness of a dog in protecting his master's life and property.

WELLINGTON.

"THE MAGIC FLAME."

Ronald Colman plays a double role to-night in "The Magic Flame," first that of a clown and then that of a count. It is Vilma Banky, an aerial artiste, whom Colman's two characters love and struggle for.

"THE TIGRESS."

Dorothy Revier plays opposite Jack Holt on Monday. One of the dances she does has come down through the ages, and requires great skill. It is called "The Dance of Daggers," and is performed by the gypsy queens and princesses. A dozen or more knives are used in the execution of the dance.

"UNDER ARCTIC SKIES."

"Under Arctic Skies," a new scenic film, is coming to the Palace Theatre next week. A record of the adventures in Alaska, of Capt. Jack Robertson and Art Young, it is pictorial, informative, and thrilling. One of the most awe-inspiring sections of the picture shows the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, formed by the terrific eruption of Mt. Katmai, in 1912, when the top of the mountain was blown clean off.

GORDON STRET.

"A LIGHT IN THE WINDOW."

To-night's feature is "A Light in the Window," a modern drama of a man's weakness and a woman's love.

"MOTHERLAND."

For the whole of next week the management are presenting "Motherland," a stupendous film made in memory of the flower of youth who went forth to battle. It depicts them going to war, with anxious relatives saying goodbye.

EMPIRE.

DOUBLE-FEATURE PROGRAMME.

For the first part of next week, the programme will include a typical British film and a typical American picture. "Quinney's," produced by Gaumont British, is the screen version of Horace Annesley Vachell's delightful romance written round the professional and domestic career of a kindly, quixotic dealer in antiques. Alma Taylor and John Longden head the cast. "Spring Fever" is described as a comical romance of the golf links, with William Haines as a young shipping clerk posing as a millionaire.

"THE WHITE SHEIK."

This story, screened to-night, deals with the adventures of a high-spirited English girl who, while spending a holiday in Tez, wanders into the mountains, and is taken prisoner by the Riffs, and then taken before their leader, an Englishman known as "The White Sheik."

"HUMAN SALVAGE."

On Monday next, Lilian Hall Davis is the leading light in "Human Salvage," a fine drama of land and sea. The locale of the story is laid on the Mediterranean Coast, and contains many beautiful scenic backgrounds, that are in themselves a picture.

ICE TIDE

30 p.m. Family Service of Remembrance.
