The League—Div. III. LUTON v. BRISTOL ROVERS. Monday, Mar. 13th.

This is the League game postponed from January 14th, when Cup-ties took the Town to Halifax and the Rovers to Aldershot. The Rovers have a fairly good position in the League, and there is no doubt that our old friend Captain Prince Cox, who was as popular at Luton as anywhere, has done a good deal for the Rovers. They are tenth on the League table, but their position is much better than that, for they have several games in hand of clubs above them. That means that they will want to make another rise this afternoon at our expense, but we also have need to get a move on unless we are to be lower down in the League than we have been for several years. Our position, too, is better than it looks, and we ought to have improved it on Saturday at Cardiff. If ever there was a game that we looked to have won it was this in the first half, but the lads did not maintain their standard of the first period, and eventually lost, though we feel we had a good deal to grumble about apart from the play.

One or two of our lads did not escape without injury at Cardiff, and there may have to be changes in the side for this game, and the Rovers had a hard match with Clapton Orient on Saturday, and so there may be changes in their eleven. We are sorry we shall not see Vivian Gibbins, the famous Amateur International, so long associated with West Ham United, in their attack, but we are to see George M'Nestry in the side again, though a little while ago he lost his place to Wyper.

Our record of matches with the Rovers since the War may be interesting. It will be seen that we have taken a couple of points more than they, but they have the slight advantage of three goals. Luton's figure is given first in each case.

Next Saturday we have Reading on this ground, and there should be something like a record crowd, for Reading still have a good chance for the championship, and are sure to make a great effort to overcome our boys. As with this game, however, we want the points badly, for it is time we had some of the form shown in the Cup-ties in our League games. It is a long time since we were so low down in the table as we are to-day.
