Liverpool F.C. Programme, Edited by Ernest Edwards "BEE"

A Lot to be Thankful for

Yes, we begin the Year with a good deal of gratitude for our lot. It is a lot to be thankful for small mercies. Have you ever thought, however, how infrequently we have serious accidents in football? Eastham's case in the cup-tie comes back to mind. It was just a year ago and one despaired of seeing him play again. Yet to-day he is as strong as ever and his confidence has not wilted. For which all must be thankful. Broken legs are indeed rare in First Division football. Next Saturday, Liverpool will be facing one who has come back to the toil after having had his leg broken in a cup-tie versus Aston Villa at Charlton, a replayed game. Hobbs is the name, and this unusual-looking footballer, so capable on the wing of the sporting club, gets our best wishes for future appearances, if not success next Saturday against Anfield's youthful defenders.

Considering the sliding tackles, the hurly-burly of football, the number of broken legs in this city has been abnormally low. Wilfred Toman was one of the earliest in this city—appearing for Everton's team and Sheldon has been the only one in Anfield's career, if we except our present old-timer, trainer Charlie Wilson, who broke his leg in a game at Middlesbrough. Sheldon's crack remains a memory to all those who were at the game between Liverpool and Derby many years ago. Sheldon was winging it and he ran into the son of Liverpool's old goalkeeper, Storer. The blow had fallen, quite accidentally, and Jackie, a broth of a boy, was taken to hospital, but insisted on stopping the ambulance on the way to the hospital to ask the police officer on point duty if Liverpool had scored any more goals. He was smoking his cigarette and was full of pluck. To-day he is laid up with T.B. and his letters bear the Sheldonian calm and uncomplaining note. He was a most popular member of the Anfield team, with perky nose, quick-step and reddish hair. He left Manchester United because he foresaw Billy Meredith playing till he was fifty years old—which was just what Billy did—in a cup-tie, semi-final match. Meredith's curiosity was that he played for thirty years, started versus Newcastle United and finished his career playing against Newcastle United in a cup semi-final. And we talk of veterans in modern football when they touch the thirty mark! Camsell, Waring, Dean and others have weathered the storm for years of football and in our own camp one does not forget the continuation-service of such men as James Jackson, Walter Wadsworth, Tom Bradshaw, McKinlay, James McDougall, and others, not forgetting that most remarkable man Cunliffe, who came from St. Helens, a man with a long life in football and a big family. Cunliffe was one of the oldest of the football tribes. It is good to cast-back for the local servants of clubs and in this direction everyone has been charmed to know Harry Chambers was playing as late as last season—at centre half-back.

When Saltburn Housed Cup Trainers

Liverpool's visit to Saltburn this week for a resting-place recalls my many visits there in many football jobs. Liverpool went there for special training in the days of the chairmanship of the late Mr. W. R. Williams. Snow made movement difficult. Players had no chance of training, any thought of going out was attended with chains for the motors, and the hotel food was so good the players came out for the cup-tie at Newcastle like the best-fed people! Mr. Williams vowed he would never again sanction seaside training. Other times, other decisions. Saltburn was the scene of the Little Theatre, down the rd. rail to the prom. Liverpool players packed the hall and enjoyed a great show in which a Wallasey lady, Leonie Lascelles, was a bright star. The company heard of Hoylake and its chances there, and arriving found cold comfort from a town that has only just learned to give due credit to a Repertory Company, which has now been taken to the public's arms and the public ask them to return this summer!

Curious world, is it not? Football produces many curious things. Director Williams insisted in the writer coffeing in town a few days ago. His car arrived and in the back seat was Jack Campbell, rare old fruity Liverpool supporter, nowadays living in Hampshire. Jack pulled from his pocket Everton's fixture list of 1890-1, when they won the championship, he reminded me; and I reminded him the League was won that year with the fewest number of points ever obtained for the honours class. Jack showed the photograph, all tattered and torn, and in the front they had ropped up a little fellow of infinite ability as centre-forward—the Gallacher of his day—Fred Geary, of the splay-feet, immense pace of run and shot. Fred Geary lives on and his football work is carried on by Lol Geary, his son, who is well known in amateur circles in this city. After the coffee we left for our respective homes, and on making the street who should we meet but—yes, Lol Geary.

Welcome, The Strawplatters

The Luton Town Football Club was founded in 1885 through the amalgamation of the Luton Wanderers and the Luton Excelsior.

It was at first an amateur organisation, but in 1891 adopted professionalism in the most modest way possible, the players being on a "limit wage" of half-a-crown a week!

By degrees ambition led to the engagement of one fully paid professional (a centre-forward of considerable renown) boasting a name none other than that of Hughie Gallacher!

Gallacher hailed from Glasgow and before going to Luton in 1892 played in turn for Our Boys (Dundee), Bootle, Middlesbrough and Burnley. As time went on so their number of professionals increased and, likewise, the strength of the Luton team.

The first seasons of the Southern League resolved themselves practically into duels between Luton and Millwall, for at that time the other clubs were not up to the standard of the strawplatters and the dockers. In fact, Luton retired from the Southern League at the end of the season 1896-97 and joined the Second Division of the English League to enable them to encounter better class opponents, and so strong was the Luton team at that time that it ought to have carried itself into the First League.

A Luton name that will be recalled to this day by many on Merseyside is that of goalkeeper Perkins, who in the early part of the present century linked up with our own Liverpool club and here won a First Division Championship medal in 1901.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

without Calomel—and you'll jump out of bed in the morning full of vim and vigour

YOUR LIVER should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your system daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays inside you. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk, and the world looks punk.

Laxatives help a little, but a mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carters Brand Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carters Brand Little Liver Pills.

Stubbornly refuse anything else. 1/3 and 3/- at all chemists.

The Wanderers Return

However, the cost of player-transfers and long railway journeys in the Second League had played havoc with the finances of the club, and in 1900 they very wisely returned to the Southern League, the other Southern clubs in the meantime having improved out of all knowledge.

Coming into the League's Southern Section soon after the war Luton eventually finished champions in 1936-37, and since then have performed in quite creditable fashion. This season they have fared especially well when performing away from their native heath, whilst they gave a recent sample of their abilities when picking up all six points in their three Christmas week matches.

Incidentally, despite the present power of Division II, only Blackburn and Sheffield United have registered more away victories; clear indication that this Town eleven are a full ninety minutes side of considerable merit.

Luton have (or had) Merseyside links, with Messrs. Kay, McBain and George Martin, to intensify, if that be possible, local interest, whilst the present side includes not a few "notables" in the matter of personnel.

Goalkeeper Coen was with Glasgow Celtic ere crossing the Border in 1932, whilst full-back King had a spell with Notts County, and two years ago was in the Bournemouth side that lost to Everton in the Cup at Goodison Park.

Left-back Dunsmore was Neil McBain's first Luton signing, and began with Edinburgh Hibs.

The club has a capital array of cable half-backs, five in all, the best known, perhaps, being Longhran, who was with Birmingham two seasons ago.

The forwards are a dangerous set, and note the fact that they have scored more goals away than at home.

Well, here's the old, old wish—May it be a sportman's match and the better side to win!

While Liverpool were beating Preston North End, cup holders, a rather mature figure stepped into the directors' box. It was Neil McBain, manager of Luton Town, who had come to spy out the promised land of cup ties at Anfield. He knows his Anfield, for did he not play there after appearing with Manchester and Everton? McBain was everybody's vote in a footballers' camp-party I attended. We were discussing the princely pivots over the years. Most of them gave a vote to Alec Raisbeck, prince of them all. But everyone agreed that, for sheer art and ability to compel a ball to do his bidding, none excelled McBain.

McBain could have taken golf as his sport-hands in the golfing world and proved a golf 'pro.' of merit, but the 'footy' game holds him too tightly to let him think of golf except in spare time. He has grown big since the day he trod the Anfield green. I always remember him for his method of gathering the ball; he looked so solemn, so unconcerned, yet he always got that ball under control with one and the same movement.

Estimate That Crowd

Recently we have found spectators at Anfield taking more thought of the attendance figures than they have shown in earlier years. A week ago a home match was styled as having 40,000 spectators. I remember so well the opening of my team's round-team, Birmingham; ground, St. Andrew's. Yes, that answers some of the supposed red-or-blue tendencies supposed to be in my make-up. St. Andrew's had a broadside Kop—it is named Spion Kop, just as I christened our own Anfield goal-end Spion Kop, and it "stuck" all through the years. The evening papers said Birmingham had opened their ground with 60,000 spectators. I suggested 30,000 was nearer the mark and I was laughed to scorn. The ground was not packed and if the spectators are not tightly-locked shoulder to shoulder the ground cannot be full. Estimating attendances is a pleasant task. May I make some suggestions for your help? First watch the Kop portion. It is the signal-post of all gates. The crowd there looks full, but if you take notice you will see in an attendance of 35,000 the people there are able to walk about. If you see movement of that character on the Kop be sure there is nothing like 40,000 spectators at the game. The paddock is another sure sign-post. The paddock generally packs first in the centre aisles. Later the wing aisles become fullish. If there are 45,000 people present the paddock must be quite nicely full—shoulder-to-shoulder, but if the people are walking and waiting on the steps behind the paddock, waiting for an exciting moment to send the first six rows of the paddock tumbling down to the first step, then the ground is well packed. The Church-corner of the Kop and the grandstand is another indicator. Corners give first, because the people there, in a very big crowd, are unable to get towards the centre portions. Thus the first break generally occurs at this corner. Breaks there indicate 50,000 and more. Hampden Park, Glasgow, is, of course, the best packed of all grounds—it is a natural valley and is continually being banked up higher and higher. Yet I have seen a crowd of nearly 140,000 there and seven minutes after the finish of the game the ground has emptied itself. In that sense it is a miracle ground, but it has not the covering of Wembley or, of course, Anfield and Everton, the last two having always taken care of sheltering the public in the cheaper portions of the ground. This is a wise precaution against wet and many homes must have blest the day the Kop was instituted. It was a mammoth task, costing thousands, but an insurance against poor gates. Expert workmen used to climb the iron pillars like the skilled monkeys of the Stadium Circus. They perched on the top as if they were Americans doing a sit-down strike. It was all perilous, but I do not remember any serious accident. Nowadays spectators under its shelter can have no idea of the difficulties of erection of the covering, or the risk taken by the far-seeing directors, who looked ahead so that the local spectators could pay their bobs and have a first-class view without fear of rain.

"Auwer 'Arry" of "Bernigum"

Which is Brummage for
Mr. Harry Hibbs of Birmingham

By Ernest Edwards "Bee".

When I was instrumental in getting Bert Freeman, of Aston Villa, transferred to Everton, Dr. Whitford, the big Irishman of the Everton club, said: "Can any good come out of Birmingham?" Meaning me, of course! Well, some good has come out of Brum—ask my better half!—and in a football sense one of the best things therefrom is our 'Arry, the goalkeeper who followed in the steps of Chris Charlsey (afterwards Chief of Police at Coventry), Robinson, etc. Everton took Walter Abbott from Birmingham, and Liverpool once had thoughts of taking Hibbs from Birmingham, even in days when Elisha was "protesting" about leaving Liverpool. Now to have sacrificed Hibbs on the altar of a transfer market deal would have been almost criminal in the eyes of the Brums. He and Joe Bradford did more to "make" Birmingham, in a football sense, than any other pair, even including the old-timers Cæsar Llewellyn Jenkyns, Weldon, Ben Green, Leake, Leonard, and such like.

In England's 'keeper and the guardian angel of the Birmingham goal we have something of a superman.

Hibbs come into the Sam Hardy and Kenneth Campbell category in the matter of gaining good conduct marks—and give us your well-behaved player all the time as against the temperamental, sometimes easily-led diamond of lustrous hue. They used to say "the best goalkeepers are mad," but perhaps this was because few other madmen cared to risk the dangers of the goalie's job. And it is nearly as bad to-day. For surely no man is more open to be shot at—and that not only in a literal sense.

It was in the very last match of 1925-6 Hibbs made his League debut (it was Tremelling's first "miss" for three seasons), and the occasion was a big one—on the Arsenal ground v. Buchan & Co. The following season his chances were again cut down to one—this time also on a London club ground—the Spurs. The following two seasons Hibbs' appearances were still not too frequent, but in 1929-30 he came into his own so brilliantly that he was capped v. Scotland—and this in his first full season! Hibbs, in action, is a model 'keeper—never flurried, never given to the spectacular, never prone to the taking of needless risk—perfect in timing, catching and "hitting." To the budding goal-aspirant, eager to succeed, we would say, watch Hibbs, learn of him, and you cannot go wrong.

Hibbs is a Wilnecote native (near Tamworth), and proud of it. He played for Tamworth Castle, and joined Birmingham when quite a junior.
