GIVEN freedom from a replay situation, the heaviest snowfall this year or 22 footballers withdrawing their labour over a who does what dispute, we'll have the FA Cup Semi-Finals sorted out this afternoon.

And while we long ago found out that the North East will just have to watch the Final on TV again this year, at least a couple of managers are giving us the feeling that somehow, somehow we are just a little bit involved.

Bob Paisley, his Durham twang still as rich as ever, is looking to add the Cup to the League championship trophy which already looks booked for Anfield.

Surprisingly, perhaps John Barnwell finds himself in a position where he can land a major trophy, whereas when he took on the job of managing Wolves, no doubt merely keeping the Midlanders in the First Division would have done for starters.

They say that the personality of the manager is reflected in the team – or is it the other way round – and certainly in Bob Paisley, who is quiet, effective and anything but flash, there is something to that.

Whether it applies in studying the make-up of Manchester United, Arsenal and Wolves may be another matter.

Dave Sexton is something akin to Paisley, never using 10 words where one will do. Arsenal's Terry Neill and Barnwell are in their own different ways eloquent. Yet it would take an all-seeing eye, and more besides, to detect the eloquence in Wolves.

If football was about stating the obvious, then obviously Liverpool's efficiency would take care of Manchester United; Wolves, labouring long and hard at the wrong end of the First Division, would not have an earthly against Arsenal.

In the event, Wolves will win by a cricket score.....one if their supporters assure me.

And a Stretford Ender is putting about that a hat-trick of own goals from one of Paisley's defenders will settle the other tie.

I just hope they can hope they get the whole business over with as soon as possible.

Then we can start talking about what will happen next season.

Because a far distant hope is better than no hope at all.

MANAGER'S TALK-IN

Proud. In a word that's how I felt down at Stoke on Tuesday night. And though I often feel that words come a bit cheap in our game at a time when the feeling of being manager of Sunderland Football Club after that sort of performance was sheer magnificence.

I think there were several reasons why I was so pleased with the result.

Of course the prime one was that it kept us right in the promotion hunt. But we went into that match with a lot of people saying we were ready to fall away; that having lost a valuable player we could not cope with the demands of the situation.

But the result confirmed what managers are saying all the time: that football is a team game. It is about the 11 players out there, the sub sitting on the bench, all the people who go up to make a football club.

And that of course includes you the fans. Your contribution is always capable of being vital.

Certainly those of you who were able to make the trip to the Potteries helped to give the game a cup-tie atmosphere. And the backing most certainly helped to produce a highly professional performance.

But the minute the final whistle was blown, Stoke was history. You can't live off your last game. The team that thinks it can is the team that is on a loser. There is no way I will allow that sort of situation to develop at Sunderland.

We have to go on earning our points in the same diligent manner. I have used my programme column in the past as a means of appealing to all our supporters to get behind the team in the final stages of the season.

At the risk of being repetitive, I will do so again. I ask that of you because I am asking something which is worthwhile. That's why it is worth saying again.

The pressures are going to mount for all of the club's involved in the promotion race.

We've got to make sure that we are all in the best possible frame of mind to ride them – and ride them successfully.

ROKER REVIEW 'HIGH IN THE CHARTS'

One of the best match-day programmes of its type in the country.

That's Roker Review – and that's official!

The Independent Northern Programme Centre has just announced its 1979 awards.

And Roker Review figures prominently, claiming third place in the "Outsize" section.

The NPC says in its report: "The voting for this award was very close with only a small number of votes separating the top six clubs. The publications have proved to be real value for money and much credit is due to the programme editors and printers."

The Big Interview

Tony Hardisty (Sunday Express) talks to Ken Knighton

Roker Park? It's my seventh heaven!

SOMEBODY once said of Sunderland's chief coach that he has had more clubs than Jack Nicklaus. In fact this is his seventh port of call in a playing and coaching career stretching back almost two decades.

Ken Knighton is 35 years old, Barnsley born and currently lives in Sheffield, commuting to Wearside where his hot-gosseing has been an integral part of Sunderland's promotion push this astonishing season.

Jimmy Adamson brought him here from Sheffield Wednesday last summer and the blond former defender insists: "This is the best club I've been with – and I've had plenty."

His first manager was the legendary Stan Cullis at Wolves – but he also played for Andy Beattie and Ronnie Allen before leaving Molineux for Oldham.

Jimmy McIlroy, once of Burnley and Northern Ireland, was his boss at Boundary Park and another ex-Burnley player, Bobby Seith, was manager at his next club, Preston.

From Deepdale came a short move to Blackburn – Eddie Quigley and Johnny Carey were managers there in his time – and when he moved again it was to Hull with Terry Neil (now at Arsenal) in charge.

Also at Hull, as assistant manager and coach respectively, were those larger-than-life characters Tommy Docherty and Tommy Kavanagh – but it was at his last club, Sheffield Wednesday, that Ken had the experience of working for four managers in a five year spell.

Derek Dooley signed him – and got the sack. Steve Burtenshaw, now manager of First Division strugglers Queens Park Rangers, took over – and got the sack.

Len Ashurst took over from Burtenshaw and employed Ken first as a player and then as a coach before Wednesday pushed him into the ranks of the unemployed. Len, for so long a Roker Park favourite of course, is now manager of Newport.

Wednesday's next boss was Jack Charlton, but when Sunderland wanted him Ken did not hesitate.

"I have been around this game, worked for a lot of people, seen a lot of clubs from the inside. This is, potentially at least, the best of the lot – and potentially one of the best in Britain," he says. "I like to think I have made a positive contribution – I believe I have. It's been an absolute joy working for a club with such tremendous fans."

"They are certainly the best supporters of any club I have worked for – that the lovely thought is that thousands and thousands will flock to Roker Park if we are promoted this season."

So how does he rate the chances of top flight football here next season – and I asked him for his most honest assessment.

"Three of the clubs currently in the top five will go up – that's one thing I'm sure of", he replied instantly.

"Our away form has been tremendous and I see us finishing with an average of a point a game away from Roker Park. We have the home games left to give us an outstanding chance. Given just average luck and freedom from injuries – and that is crucial – I believe we'll make it. And then the football world is Sunderland's oyster. I hope to be part of it".

After a couple of drinks at lunchtime, some people leave work a little early.

Drinking enough to make you slightly merry, will also make you surprisingly dangerous.

1½ pints of beer at lunchtime (or 3 whiskies) could make you twice as likely to have a nasty accident.

Knock back one more pint, and you could be four times as likely to injure yourself. Or one of your mates.

And the more you drink, the more prone to accidents you become.

Heavy drinking at night can also lead to accidents the next day. The alcohol stays in your bloodstream for up to 12 hours, so you'll arrive at work already dangerous.

And just one drink at lunchtime could top you up. To make you lethal.

The message is one we'd hate you to learn the hard way. Instead, send us this coupon, and we'll tell you how to drink without it costing an arm and a leg.

PAUL PRICE

Luton's longest-serving player, Price has been a model professional since being recruited from youth soccer in 1971. Consistent performances in junior and reserve teams marked him out as an exciting prospect. On the verge of the league scene in 1974, he broke his leg. He fought his way back to fitness, only to break it for a second time. But the second come-back was permanent, and Price has been a regular member of Luton's side for the past three years.

DAVID CARRA

Spotted by a Luton scout near his home town of Margate, full-back Carr joined Luton when he left school at 16 in 1973. Can play equally well in the back four or in midfield, but made his major breakthrough last season when he made the left back position his own after Luton sold Steve Buckley to Derby County.

GRAHAM JONES

Recruited from Manchester schools football at the age of 16 in 1975, Jones turned out to be a highly versatile player. He made rapid strides through Luton's lower teams, and made his league debut at 17. He started as a centre-half, but has also sampled a midfield role in the Second Division, and seems equally at home in either department.

MAL DONAGHY

Glasgow Celtic, Queen's Park Rangers, Sheffield United and Wolves were all reported to be interested in the future of Northern Ireland under-21 international Donaghy in the summer of 1978. But Luton were first off the mark, and secured his transfer from Larne, and manager Pleat rates the centre-half one of the best young players ever to come into the English game.

CHRIS TURNER

Luton fought off rival overtures from First Division Norwich to secure the services of accomplished defender Turner, who had been a mainstay at Peterborough for nine seasons. Luton boss Pleat was once a playing colleague of Turner's at Peterborough, had him watched in the 1977/78 season, and then laid out £95,000 for his signature.

RICKY HILL

PHIL BOERSMA

RICKY HILL

A midfield player of immense talent, Hill was signed as an apprentice from schoolboy Football in North London as a 16-year-old, and within a year his delicate ball skills and explosive shooting had earned him his place in Luton's league side while still only 17.

BOB HATTON

One of the most experienced strikers in the game, Luton moved quickly to secure the signature of Hatton in the close season. He had proved that he could score goals in any league in service with Birmingham, Carlisle and Blackpool, and his disappointment at Blackpool's relegation to the Third Division was cancelled out when Luton's £50,000 cheque took him back up to the Second.

KIRK STEPHENS

Luton Manager David Pleat's knowledge of non-league football paid handsome dividends when he signed Stephens, a promising right back with Nuneaton in the Southern League. Pleat was once manager at Nuneaton, and one of his first moves after taking charge at Luton was to go back to his old club to take Stephens into the league scene for a bargain £5,000 fee. Stephens immediately bridged the gap to full-time football to force his way into Luton's first team squad.

PHIL BOERSMA

Luton had to wait three years before landing an attacker they had long respected. In 1974 they tried to buy him from Liverpool, but the bid was rejected. Later Boersma joined Middlesbrough, but had an unsettled 18 months there, and in the summer of 1977 he moved to Luton for a bargain fee of £35,000.

DAVID MOSS

Respected throughout the game as a model clubman, Moss gave sterling service to Swindon in the Third Division before moving up a division last summer. He was their leading scorer, and Luton liked his pace and accuracy. His £110,000 transfer was a major part of David Pleat's re-building operation in the 1978 close season.

Mick Docherty was the reluctant hero at the Victoria Ground where his fifth minute goal landed two valuable points.

Mick got the credit and the glory but he was quick to point out: "My goal was made all the easier by a superb through ball from Mick Buckley.

the Sunderland defence but the back four, in which Steve Whitworth made his debut, were not found wanting.

Roger Jones, in the Stoke goal, was not exactly idle either, but it was still a great save from Barry Siddall right at the death that stopped Paul Randall from cracking an equaliser.

Other notable Sunderland performances came from Shaun Elliott and Jeff Clarke.

Roland was a big favourite with some Sunderland fans before he even joined the club. For it was some outstanding performances for Halifax in North Midland League games at Roker Park which lead to his signing. However he could have done with better luck this season because the programme was scarcely underway when he sustained a bad knee injury. But he has bounced back and produced a succession of hat-tricks in the reserves and is now really knocking on the first team door.
