MATCH PREVIEW

This afternoon we welcome to Kenilworth Road a club who, like many others, are currently feeling the economic pinch.

Two weeks ago, a Derby County board meeting produced four new directors after chairman Richard Moore resigned and was replaced by Bill Stevenson.

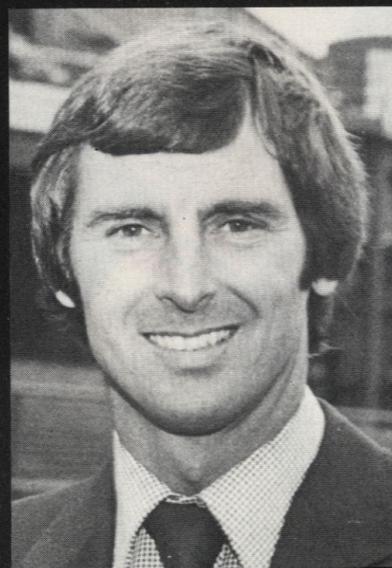

Major shareholder John Kirkland also moved onto the board with local businessmen Fred Fern, Frank Cholerton and former Grimsby vice-president Mick McGarry.

Derby have a £1 million overdraft, but are making plans for a new share issue and directors are expected to contribute about £350,000.

Derby's financial position is nothing new to other clubs. The recession has caught up with many clubs and directors throughout the Football League are looking at more ways to tighten their purse strings.

Falling attendances is only one reason why clubs are short of money and our own chief executive John Smith is currently in the middle of a lengthy dossier on his views on the problem.

You can read his comments this week on page 19 in an article headed Save Our Soccer.

There's plenty of reading in your matchday magazine this afternoon. And there's news of an exciting new golf competition, arranged in conjunction with our scoreboard sponsors, Wallspan Bedrooms, on page 15.

Manager David Pleat's column appears on page 4 with a piece of nostalgia for our older supporters on page 23. Our travel section is gaining momentum and supporters can find out all the latest details on page 13.

And if you're thinking about starting the annual Christmas shopping trek, we have some super bargains for you on page 25. It's all in your action-packed matchday magazine.

There are also plenty of prizes to be won in the pre-match Take Your Pick competition. Will you be one of today's lucky winners?

Our mascot this afternoon is nine-year-old Amanda Evans, who lives in Harpenden. We sincerely hope she enjoys her afternoon with us. Amanda is featured in the Junior Hatters column on pages 10 and 11.

We welcome everyone this afternoon including Derby manager Colin Addison, another boss who has his eyes on First Division status. But our sincere welcome is all we are prepared to give the Rams. They'll have a fight on their hands for the three points.

PERSONALITY PROFILE

One fan's view of some of the great names of Luton Town By BRIAN SWAIN

This column's recollections last week of Gordon Turner touched a chord with a lot of supporters who look back with misty-eyed pleasure to the days of the middle and late fifties.

And if all the men who carried Luton Town into the First Division in 1955 were stars, one name more than any other seems to rank in a lot of memories alongside that of Gordon Turner.

Ask any of us who supported the Hatters what we remember most about Bob Morton, and the chances are that you will get the 'wrong' reason.

Bob, who still lives and works locally, holds the Luton Town appearances record, with 494 League games played between 1948 and 1964. Yet that superb record tends to take second place in my memory. One fortnight of football magic was the highlight of Morton's early career.

Time and again when the name Morton crops up in conversation among football fans, the regular question is: 'Remember that day when he ran rings round Billy Wright?'

You bet we do! Morton joined the Town after playing in local soccer with Eaton Bray and Waterlows, and began his career as a right-half.

His great strength was his stylish and elegant use of the ball, and the ability to spot an opening for a pass or shot. He was also a bit of a utility man — give him any job in the team, and he could be relied on, no matter what number he carried on his shirt.

He even played at centre-forward a time or two in his early days, and in the Town's first season in the First Division they found themselves short of a fully-fit and experienced No. 9 as they prepared for a home match with Wolves, then one of the top club sides in the world.

They had England international Billy Wright at centre-half and on 5th November 1955 Luton Town, the First Division's new boys, were generally expected to be ready for a footballing lesson from mighty Wolves.

Luton asked Morton to have a go at centre-forward, and brought Jim Pemberton in at right-half. And the Wolves in general, and Billy Wright in particular, hardly knew what hit them as the Town staggered the football world with a 5-1 victory.

Morton and Turner, who became something lethal in scoring partnerships, scored two each and Mick Cullen got the other. Johnny Hancock was the Wolves scorer.

Not surprisingly, Bob Morton was a highly-rated centre-forward for the rest of his career. Two weeks after the demolition of Wolves, Sunderland, another top team, came to Kenilworth Road. If they knew what to expect after the Wolves experience, it didn't help much — the Town crushed them 8-2, with Morton scoring the first hat-trick of his League career. Cullen also got two and Turner converted two penalties, with Jimmy Adam the other Town scorer.

We hammered Sunderland 6-2 the following season, and if they managed to keep Morton quiet in that game, it still cost them — Turner helped himself to four goals. And we won 7-1 the season after that!

Morton collected an FA Cup runners-up medal in 1959, and ended his long one-club career by retiring in 1964, when Luton Town were in the Third Division and on their way into the Fourth.

He had a spell as player-manager of Bletchley without marked success, and left football with the comment that once you have been in it at the very top level, you lose a bit of enthusiasm for second best. Bob Morton will never be considered second best by any of us who had the pleasure of watching him in his prime.

BOB MORTON

DAVID'S DIARY

A sincere welcome to Derby and particularly Colin Addison whom I played with at Forest, and John Newman who was a playing colleague and manager when I played at Exeter.

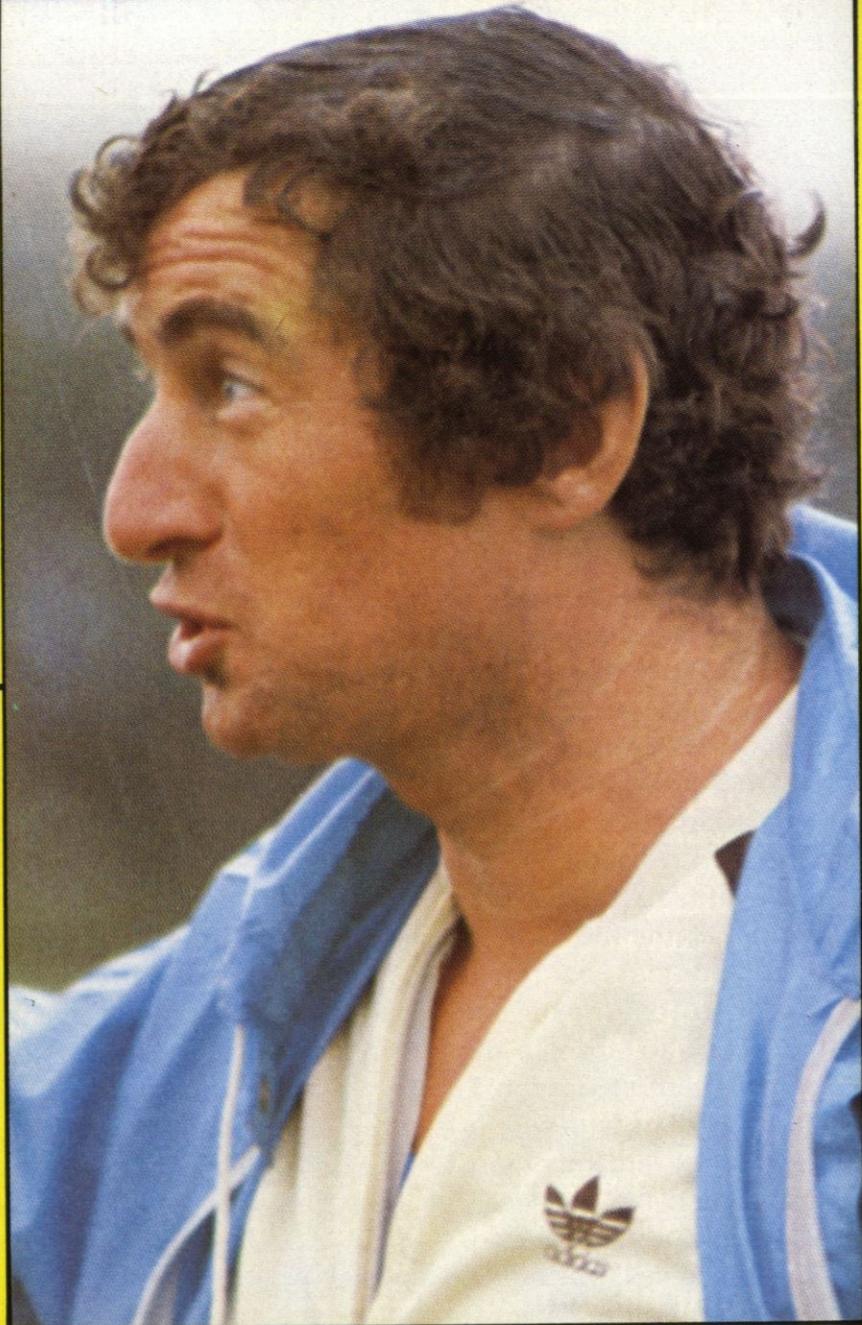

If given the right backing at Derby, they will do very well, having produced some outstanding young players. Our second consecutive home game gives the team a further opportunity to prove that we have the ability and attitude required to have a consistent season.

I do not consider our dismissal from the League Cup was a blessing in disguise', I would far rather we were involved in the next round, but it is not to be. We changed gear too late in the game at Wrexham and their defence in depth just edged them through the round. The match result gives us the quite tremendous record of playing seven away games this season, so far winning six and drawing one.

At home we must relax and perhaps pretend we are playing away! I am sure that this season's results in all Divisions show that playing away is not as great a disadvantage as it always appeared to be — the pressure to win is on the home side. The only side which seems certain of an outstanding home record this season is Queens Park Rangers.

However, it seems rather unfortunate that managers are now slating the pitch after having played and lost on the synthetic surface. The time to complain is privately and quietly after you've won, or before you play.

I would like to thank all the ex-players who turned out at St Albans in aid of the Year of the Disabled charity game. It was great to see Macdonald of Fulham bearing down on goal; Peter Anderson of Millwall placing shots cunningly and our John Moore who played like three men at the back. John was forced to play like three men as two players failed to notify the manager that they were not going to turn up — they will not get another opportunity. It was an enjoyable afternoon.

There has been an avalanche of requests recently for players to attend functions and give prizes, or go coaching. They can only do so much; some of the players have wives and families and need to relax occasionally in their spare time. Most organisations appreciate the time the players give to help good causes, but there are people who take advantage, do not say thank you, and expect it as a right. We will continue to help where we can.

It would be a great boost to us all here if we can not only keep the results successful, but also improve, steadily, the attendance figures. We are capable of playing pleasing football and I sincerely hope that we will achieve our ambitions, but extra gate revenue will be vital to strengthen the playing resources of the club.

Enjoy today's game.

DAVID PLEAT

Luton manager David Pleat places much emphasis on the club's youth scheme. It is a vital cog in a very big wheel and the advantages of producing home-grown players without paying huge transfer fees speaks for itself. The most important people in the link are our coaches John Moore and Trevor Hartley who look after the youth teams and we found John on the pitch this week delivering some sound advice to five youngsters.

SPOTLIGHT

ON
MARK AIZLEWOOD

Mark Aizlewood was relatively inexperienced when he became manager David Pleat's first Luton signing after taking over from Harry Haslam. Aizlewood had played only 38 Football League games for Newport County when Mr Pleat secured his transfer for a modest £40,000. But it has since proved to have been money well spent. Mark won a Welsh Under-21 international cap and was presented with it on the pitch at Kenilworth Road this season by Luton chairman Denis Mortimer. Born in Newport, Mark joined his local professional club and, before the start of this season, he had made a total of 72 Football League appearances for the Town. He limped off against Grimsby at half time on October 17th and missed the Second Division match at Wrexham the following week. And, although he had regained his fitness for the League Cup-tie three days later, he was unable to win back his place due to the fine form showed by his deputy, Clive Goodyear. This week, we asked Mark to answer the Spotlight questions.

Do you find life different living in this part of the country than in Wales?

'Yes, it's more expensive and people are not so friendly.'

What do you remember about your Football League debut?

'Wearing a short sleeved shirt and almost freezing to death for one and a half hours at Darlington.'

Who is the best player you have personally seen and why?

'George Best — the man had just about everything and a bit more to spare.'

Are you a handyman around the house?

'I like to think I am and attempt to try my hand at everything.'

What would you like to do when your playing career has finished?

'Move back home to Wales and, hopefully, be able to live comfortably.'

JUNIOR HATTERS

May I first give a very warm welcome to Luton Town to our young friends from the Junior Rams Club, Derby County, and to Steve Stone, the Junior Rams Co-ordinator, and the parents of the youngsters. Today gives the Junior Hatters Club a chance to say a big 'thank you' to Steve and his helpers at Derby County for the superb hospitality so many of our youngsters and their parents enjoyed. I hope you will all enjoy your day, and see a fine game of football.

Steve, like myself, is very keen to promote links between clubs, and what better way to do it than by welcoming our young visitors into our clubroom and offering them our facilities. The very life-line of our great game rests in the hands of our young supporters, so it's up to every one of us to do all we can to promote 'friendly rivalry' so that, hopefully, we can return to watching football in a relaxing and pleasurable environment.

To this end, I am hoping to be able to finalise arrangements with Millers United, the Rotherham United Juniors Club, for five-a-side games in the morning between selected Junior Hatters teams and 'The Millers' and for them to sample our Junior Hatters hospitality by being guests in our clubroom, and standing with us in our Junior Evening Post/Echo Enclosure, cheering on our respective teams. The success of this will depend so much on the attitudes of the adults concerned, but I'm an optimist by nature, and have great faith in our youngsters!

This week I received a beautifully written letter from Junior Hatter Robert Douglas, who was the winner of our 'Mystery Player' competition. Robert, his brother and father went as guests of the Luton Excelsior Travel Club to see Luton Town play Wrexham in the Division Two match on Saturday 24th October, and had a great time in spite of the weather. Well done, Robert!

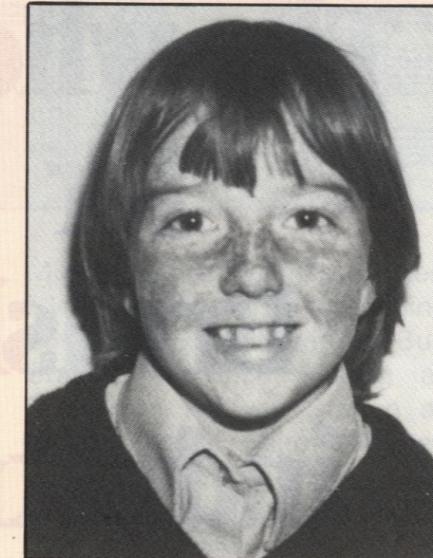

Luton Excelsior Travel Club are sponsoring our Junior Hatters Club to the tune of £2 a goal. At the time of writing the Town's scoring machine has earned us £50! Fabulous — keep it up lads!

A mention for Colin Walker, who made himself known to some of our Junior Hatters by entertaining us at one of our meetings last season. He is helping a children's charity called 'The Helen House Hospice for Children Appeal' and is holding a Grand Charity Disco in the Hatters Club on Saturday 21st November, 7.30 p.m. to 12.00 p.m. Tickets are £1 and can be obtained on the door. Tell your parents about it, and don't forget to remind them about our Buffet Dance at the Leicester Arms Public House tonight at 8.00 p.m.

TRAVEL TIME

Travel Time today begins with an apology to the supporters whose coach broke down on the way to the League Cup game at Wrexham on Tuesday 27th October. I am asked to pass on to you the regrets of the coach operator that, due to a broken hose on the vehicle, you missed some of the game.

On your behalf, I have written a letter of appreciation to Wrexham Football Club for allowing you into the game without paying!

The Blackburn bookings are coming in fast. Ring me early in the week to secure a seat. Early booking also gives time to arrange extra coaches as needed. We had four coaches of supporters to the Wrexham League game in October. Can we beat this to Blackburn? Fare: Adult £4.25; Juveniles £3, leaving Maple Road car park at 9 a.m.

I have also had advance bookings for Newcastle on Saturday 21st November, even before the cost has been announced. The fare for adults will be £6 (Juveniles £4). Allowing for distance and motorway delays we shall depart Maple Road car park at 8 a.m.

Don't forget, you now have more opportunity for booking your seats. Either telephone me (411622 ext. 27) any morning, or see our couriers who will be on duty at the main ticket office, Kenilworth Road, half an hour before kick-off, and for half an hour after the final whistle. You may pay in advance if you wish.

I am always pleased to see any of you who call at the office to book seats. Several interesting ideas have been put forward as a result of talking to you, and I am also able to encourage more of you to become members of our Travel Club.

The news that we are extending our 'in' service for the Milton Keynes area has aroused a lot of interest. The run begins now from Stony Stratford Bus Station at 13.30, calling at Wolverton Railway Station at 13.35, Central Milton Keynes Midsummer Boulevard at 13.45, Bletchley Bus Station at 13.55, then into Kenilworth Road.

The courier on the Milton Keynes run is Bob Norton, of Neath Hill, Milton Keynes, and for the Aylesbury Leighton Buzzard run it is Graham Snookes of Stone. Graham also acts as a courier on the away coaches.

Supporters in the Hitchin Letchworth and Welwyn areas must be very shy. So far, I have not been able to appoint a courier for that run. How about it now? Someone give me a ring to find out what it's all about. I promise it's not very difficult, and there is a bonus for the lucky supporter who volunteers!

FLASHBACK

a decade ago.

By BRIAN SWAIN
Sports Editor, Luton News

For all the pleasure it gives, football dishes out pain as well, and a couple of players in the national and local headlines ten years ago today can be glad that they have got over their trials and tribulations. Fleet Street's big news on the back pages on November 7th 1971, was almost unbelievable. Four days previously Asa Hartford, brilliant young Scottish midfielder at West Brom, had been transferred, subject to a medical check, to Leeds United for £170,000.

Choking back tears, Don Revie announced that the deal was off because it had been discovered Hartford had a heart complaint. Happily, even if he had, he was to prove that it was no real handicap.

At Kenilworth Road, Mike Keen was the man with problems. Luton Town had gone seven games without a win by the time this weekend of 1971 was over. And Keen was the man the fans blamed most. The baiting and barracking was unmerciful as the skipper became the man the fans loved to hate.

There was even one story doing the rounds that Keen was Alec Stock's son-in-law, which was why he kept his place in the side. The Town manager denied it publicly, and privately asked Keen if he would like to be dropped for a week or two to escape the never-ending abuse from the terraces. Keen, to his credit, declined to take the easy way out, but there was little respite as the Town flattered to deceive in November 1971.

On October 30th they had gone to Roker Park to meet Sunderland, and on form it should have been a big home victory. Keith Barber was dropped and Tony Read reclaimed the goalkeeper's jersey, Alan Slough was moved from midfield into the back four as Stock shuffled his pack to try to find a winning hand.

The Town were seeking their first away win of the season, and gave one of their best performances for ages. They were one down at the interval, to a goal scored by Dave Watson, a £100,000 buy from Rotherham who was destined to hit the international heights.

The Town got their game together after the interval, after a lucky escape in the 30th minute. Chris Nicholl saved a shot from Denis Tueart on the line, was booked for hands, then watched with much pleasure as Billy Hughes hit the penalty against the outside of the post and wide.

Gordon Hindson carved up Sunderland's right flank, and provided the passes from which Nicholl and Peter Anderson scored to put the Town ahead before Mick McGiven got a lucky equaliser with a deflected 25 yard shot.

But if the point from Sunderland cheered up Alec Stock and his directors, the smiles vanished the following week. Charlton Athletic came to Kenilworth Road on November 6th, having lost seven of their eight away games to date. In football skill we murdered them — but they went home with both points.

John Dunn made a string of good saves as the Town threatened to run riot. Don Givens hit the bar, and in the 13th minute Keen answered his critics by scoring from a chance created by Hindson and Anderson. Charlton boss Theo Foley blasted his players at half-time, and in the second half they absorbed more pressure for 15 minutes before scoring twice on the break, both through Keith Peacock, to snatch the points. And the gate, 11,011, which sounds very good by 1981 standards, was the lowest of the season at Kenilworth Road.

It was a different story for today's visitors. Brian Clough and Peter Taylor were leading them towards the first League Championship in their history and they had 30,000 at the Baseball Ground ten years ago yesterday to see a 3-0 Division One victory over Crystal Palace. Wignall, Hector and an own goal completed the score-sheet. Leeds United were runners-up at the season's end. I wonder what Asa Hartford made of that.

AROUND THE TOWN

BOX OFFICE . . . BOX OFFICE . . .

Referring to the visit of Grimsby Town and the very handsome win and the feast of goals, it was also nice to welcome once again the Grimsby Town Handicapped Supporters Club.

With the co-operation of the police we were able to accommodate at least 40 of their members in the Bobbers wing at the Kenilworth Road end. And thanks to the help received from chief steward Ken Emmerton and his steward Mr Smith and also with the assistance of Ken Halsey, Fred Hayward and their gatemens, we were able to get the whole party into their seats quite comfortably.

It was a co-operative effort by all concerned and my thanks go to everyone for the helping hands.

A reminder once again that we are prepared to accept ticket applications for future matches up to and including the Cambridge match on Boxing Day which, incidentally, kicks-off at 11.30. Applications are already coming in fast for seats for the Chelsea match on 12th December 1981. This game will be a sell out as far as seats are concerned.

Do not forget that, if you are unable to travel to an away game, it costs you only 50p to come along to see the reserves play — free for season ticket holders. There have already been some very attractive matches among the Football Combination games and it is nice to see how a very young reserve side are developing. Also you get the first team scoreline at intervals during the game.

Finally this is the first opportunity I have had of thanking Derby County, in a programme, for the wonderful bouquet of flowers they presented to my wife on the occasion of our wedding last January. This very fine gesture certainly helped to make our day.

PROGRAMME BONUS

Soccer programme collecting is becoming big business throughout Europe as many more people look to increase their collections.

We have heard from John Litster, editor of Programme Monthly, a magazine which is devoted to the subject of programme collecting and the current issue has 32 pages.

It's packed with information and any Luton supporter interested is invited to contact the editor at 5 Place Farm House, Place Farm Way, Monks Risborough, Aylesbury, Bucks, enclosing a large stamped addressed envelope and 35p.

The cover of the current issue features a Luton programme dated 28th January 1961.

WAYNE'S ON THE MOVE . . .

One of our talented younger players, Wayne Turner, has agreed to join Lincoln City on a month's loan. And manager David Pleat feels the move will give Wayne valuable first team experience in the Third Division.

With the senior side currently accumulating points, the door for younger players to come into the side isn't really wide enough and Mr Pleat agreed to allow the youngster to join City.

. . . SO IS GRAHAM

An interested spectator at one of our recent home games was Graham MacKrell, the secretary of AFC Bournemouth who joins us this month in an executive capacity.

Mr MacKrell couldn't have chosen a better match because he saw us rock Grimsby by scoring six times. 'A great result,' he said after the match. 'I am currently looking at houses in the area and hope to finalise something soon.'

BOB MORTON CONNECTION

Our season ticket holders will have been impressed with the new bar facilities under the main stand.

The old Red Bar was used last week for the first time by season ticket holders who now have their own exclusive facilities.

But, we, however, were stumped when it came to naming the new bar. We finally decided it should be named after one of our most popular players, Bob Morton, who is with us this afternoon. Welcome back, Bob.

CHARITY APPRECIATION

In David's Diary on page four, you will read our manager's comments on the recent charity match played at Clarence Park, St Albans, in aid of the International Year of Disabled People.

One of the organisers, John Willoughby, wrote to the manager saying: 'I am writing to express our sincere thanks for the contribution you made to the game. I also thank the 10 Luton players who gave up their time.'

'The financial result was not as good as we hoped for but we still managed to raise £275. I hope you enjoyed the afternoon as much as we did.'

COME OFF IT, SAMUEL

On the subject of letters, the manager has heard from three youngsters in Nigeria, West Africa. Samuel Osadolo wrote saying he and his two friends have a great interest in Luton Town FC.

'We have been hearing stories about your club,' wrote Samuel. 'In fact, we would like to be members of your youth team but would like you to sponsor us in our transportation due to money problems.'

Well, if it takes cheek to make a professional footballer, Samuel should stand a good chance.

SCOREBOARD ADVERTISING

We thank leading tyre and exhaust specialists, T&H TYRES, on being our first official scoreboard advertisers.

T&H TYRES are to be congratulated on taking the initiative in this unique venture, and also for their superb display.

We greatly value their contribution to the club both through membership of the Kenilworth Suite and in advertising, and we are sure you will want to return their support. If you're in need of their services, why not call in at your nearest T&H TYRES DEPOT?

SAVE OUR SOCCER

The Media

In my view, and I am not abdicating or shifting the responsibility, the media have not accepted, nor even perhaps understood, the responsibility and influence that they enjoy, particularly in relation to young people.

During my almost 30 years in football, the attitude and emphasis has changed in reporting. The interest has shifted from the to-ing and fro-ing of the match itself, to the very close analysis of individual incidents, which in themselves create the after-match argument and discussion which continues through Sunday and Monday and sometimes into Tuesday.

Whilst I accept that the news

In the previous two issues of your matchday magazine, Luton's chief executive John Smith has presented his investigation into our national game. This afternoon he continues his in-depth dossier. The next part will be included in the magazine for our game against Bolton later this month.

is not originated by the media, other people are influenced by the way it is reported.

We in football have lived with copycatting for years. However, it has taken the summer riots to produce the word and the acceptance that what youngsters read and see influences their action and germinates ideas in their minds.

What we saw at Sunderland when spectators ran out over the pitch, we saw subsequently at almost every ground. Where did the idea come from, why was it copied, who provided the influence, who creates superstars? Who created today's flamboyant managers? Football, or the media?

This is a complex subject for analysis. However, it must be remembered that the media compete for their audience as we do and that circulation figures have declined considerably as well as football attendances. However, declining circulation figures are not headline or back page news!

Other Factors

Of course, there are many other factors involved such as prices, television, the recession and so on. All these contribute to the decline in attendances.

However, there is still no doubt in my mind that the interest in football by young children is greater than ever, and once we are able to produce the right product again, there will be a considerable resurgence of interest once again.

What can we do?

Firstly, I do not feel that anything really positive can be done until we are rid of hooliganism. What is the use of attracting new supporters only for them to be confronted with the louts and their abuse.

Meanwhile, we must get rid of the negative aspects of the game. If you accept that the League is the greatest in the world, then very little need be done except the attempt to influence attitudes. Three points for a win is an attempt to assist this change. If this had been coupled with the abolition of the 'no score draw' this, I am sure, would have increased the emphasis.

If you accept that the structure of the League needs to be changed, then one needs to look at a change that would first rid us of the fear, and secondly develop and maintain the interest throughout the season. This would need a radical departure from today's competition, a departure which I have previously written about in the magazine.

IN RESERVE

LUTON TOWN 1 BRISTOL CITY 1

Luton fell behind after only 20 minutes following a free kick which was headed back across the goal.

The Hatters failed to win the 50-50 balls during this period and played as though fancy football alone would see us through.

A more aggressive Luton team stormed into the second half and, after some good play by Madden, Keys and Ingram, substitute Daniel knocked in the equaliser. However, instead of maintaining our thrust and keeping the ball moving with accuracy, we began hitting hopeful balls which were easily picked up by the tall Bristol defenders.

Team: Beasley, Johnson, Heath, Turner, Goodyear, Owen, Madden, Ingram, Bunn, Brammer (Daniel), Keys.

LUTON TOWN 4 CRYSTAL PALACE 0

The Town began brightly and showed plenty of thrust in the early stages and it came as no surprise when we took the lead following unselfish work by Godfrey Ingram who created a chance for Frank Bunn to score with a fine shot.

A minute before half time, a superb move gave Wayne Turner — now on a month's loan with Lincoln City — the chance to break on the right. He hit the ball hard and low and Frank Bunn gratefully accepted the chance to score his second.

Luton put the squeeze on even more in the second half when Godfrey Ingram knocked in the third when he capitalised on Tim Breaker's cross. Another individual effort from Ingram put the game beyond Palace's reach but we should have won more convincingly.

Team: Judge, Johnson, Heath, Breaker, North, Goodyear, Madden, Ingram, Bunn, Turner, Keys. Sub: Daniel.

JOHN'S JOURNAL

At our forthcoming game against Rotherham United on 28th November, I shall be again giving out the small white cards which will enable our supporters to get into the enclosure or Oak Road parts of the ground for the match against Chelsea on 12th December.

This is to make sure that only our supporters get into these areas. So if you don't get one, then you will not be allowed into those parts of the ground. This system seemed to work very well on their last two visits, so I cannot see any reason why it should not work again.

Standing season ticket holders will not need a card, but I will probably ask them to use either the enclosure or Oak Road on this occasion and leave the Kenilworth Road open terrace to the visitors, but I will make an announcement in the local press well before the game.

Now we have a new local radio station broadcasting every day, I hope to be able to use that to get information to people in the Bedford and Biggleswade areas.

I learned last week that the North American League club, Minnesota Kicks, are facing a financial crisis and it could mean the great soccer boom in the States is coming to an end. If a club like this can't make a go of it, then I fear the worst for the rest.

I have a message for our supporters travelling to Grimsby Town. The local authority have made them erect a new staircase in the visitor's enclosure at considerable expense to the club. Their directors have decided that this expense will be passed directly onto the visiting fans. Therefore, from 1st November the price for standing in the visitor's enclosure will be £2.50. No letters of complaint to Luton Town please.

PROGRAMME CORNER

By JOHN FARMER

Some of the most fascinating programmes for the collector are those which they have never actually seen. In this category one might place copies of the short-lived Third Division Cup competition that ran from 1933 to 1937 without ever really attracting much support.

One wonders whether anyone here today has ever seen a copy of such an issue.

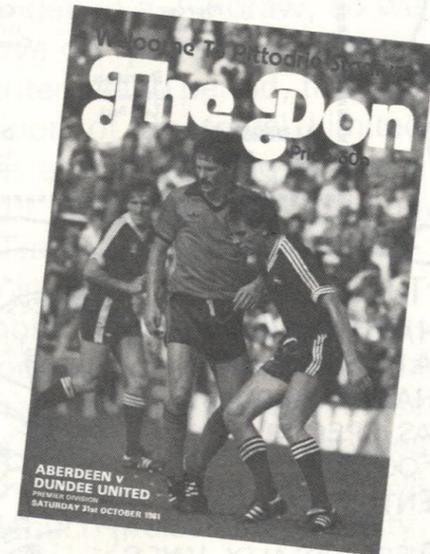

future for few teams issued more than a four-page issue or single sheet such as they used for reserve games at that time.

Programme collecting was in its infancy at the time and so the majority of these issues were not retained, all of which makes them extremely rare nowadays and therefore very valuable. This particularly applies to the two-legged finals played on a home and away basis from 1961 to 1967.

In fact, there are a few more copies available of the first final (Aston Villa v Rotherham) in 1961 than of the second (Norwich v Rochdale in 1962). The reason is, of course, that fewer were printed at the time, particularly for the second leg at Rochdale when the result was almost a foregone conclusion with Norwich four goals in the lead from the first leg.

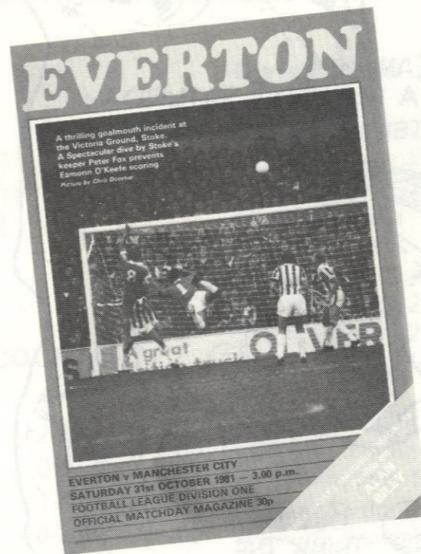

Probably only two or three thousand were published and if any do come onto the second-hand market nowadays their cost is likely to be at least £10.

Relatively few collectors have a complete run of League Cup final programmes from 1961 onwards though the Wembley issues from 1967 onwards are reasonable easily obtained. A complete set from 1961 to 1981 would consist of 28 different issues, including both legs of the early finals. They would be worth at least £200 in the second-hand market today.

This may seem unreasonable but what better way is there of recapturing the progression of the League Cup competition from its faltering early days to the great moneyspinner that it is today.

In the process it has involved thirty different clubs and over 350 different players, many of whom evoke particular memories in the fans thumbing through the copies of the programmes. This is the particular magic that the programme collector experiences.

Many leading collectors and dealers haven't seen one and it is quite possible that since these games were played in midweek only, single sheet issues were published. It is equally possible that all such issues have now perished since few at the time would have dreamed that these might eventually become very valuable.

The early days of the Football League Cup were rather similar to the Third Division competition mentioned above. The few surviving programmes from this competition reflect the doubt that was entertained about its

VISITORS

DERBY COUNTY

Commentators who considered Derby County's sixth place disappointing in last season's final Second Division chart, their first down from Division One, ignored the facts which so disturbed the Baseball Ground's faithful fans.

Constant and recurring injuries to their key and experienced players tore the heart out of the club's promotion effort, and left them with only goalkeeper Roger Jones as an ever-present.

Only five times throughout last season's campaign of 42 League and four Cup games were they able to field unchanged teams and the defence, particularly, was constantly disrupted by injury leading to the concession of 52 League goals, which was at the heart of their inconsistent performances and offset the 57 they netted themselves.

Manager Colin Addison, himself a victim of shingles for a long period around Christmas said: 'I have never known such a catalogue of injuries, illnesses and accidents as I have experienced in my two years at the Baseball Ground. But we have to look on it as the way the ball bounces, and trust it will bounce our way soon.'

So bad did what they described as a 'jinx' develop that the club Newspaper called in a lady psychic to see if she might be able to exorcise the Baseball Ground in January 1979 before the club's relegation.

The only result was the worst ever home record in years last season, with only nine wins. Eight draws and four defeats left their home tally down to 26 points but an away record, one of the best in the Division, of 19 points kept them in with a promotion chance all season — one which injuries and that dismal home return finally ensured wasn't to be.

'But it wasn't all gloomy news,' says the manager, 'we blooded six teenagers during the season, and each one is a home-grown product. It's early yet but the promise is tremendous and this season should tell us just what sort of progress each will make. Frankly, Derby County have never had such a young crop, and more are developing in a very young reserves squad.'

It's only six years since Derby County won their second League Championship in 1975 to cap their first-ever success in 1972, when Brian Clough took them to the crown.

In 1975 former Spurs and Scottish international Dave Mackay was the boss. He had guided Derby into Division One in 1969 as a player but, like Clough, he didn't long survive the triumph and Derby's problems were compounded in a two-year management period by Tommy Docherty when he sold players of the calibre of Archie Gemmill, Leighton James, Colin Todd, Kevin Hector, Colin Boulton and Charlie George, then failed to replace them with anything like the same ability.

So when Colin Addison took over two years ago he inherited a decimated squad which, nevertheless, fought injury problems to almost stave off relegation in a tremendous fight back after strikers Alan Biley and David Swindlehurst were brought in, in February 1979, to revitalise the side.

But they just failed. Illness and injury cut off Biley's real effectiveness last year but he still ended top scorer with ten goals, despite missing the last 11 games, 13 altogether in the season.

Changes have further altered the squad this summer — they were inevitable as Colin Addison faced with a cash shortage sold experienced players where he was certain he had up-and-coming youngsters to replace them to enable him to go into the market himself.

The sheer class of former England centre-half Roy McFarland (still a force, despite injury problems and his 33 years) advanced his career by taking over as player/manager of Bradford City this summer and he will be missed as will striker John Duncan formerly of Spurs and Scotland ending an injury-riddled two and a bit years at the Baseball Ground with the player/manager's job at Scunthorpe. Injuries kept both players out of the side for long spells last season.

A rich mixture of experience and promising youth remains and looks set to keep the Rams as serious promotion candidates this season.

Their loyal fans kept up the average gate to 17,000 plus last season, despite all the disappointments and their near 10,000 season ticket holders made their sales eighth best in all England in 1980-81. The summer signs were that most of them would be back again this time.

DERBY COUNTY THROUGH THE YEARS

- In 1923-24 Derby County needed to win by at least 5-0 in their last game against Leicester to clinch promotion to Division One. They won 4-0.
- In December 1945, Derby's forward line of Crooks, Carter, McCulloch, Doherty and Duncan had all scored over a century of League goals.
- In seven seasons out of nine from 1925-26 to 1933-34 the team Derby met in the last game were relegated to Division Two.
- In 1945-46 Derby won a total of nine FA Cup-ties since all rounds up to the semi-final were played on a two-leg basis. Raich Carter, who was in their FA Cup winning team that season had played in Sunderland's FA Cup winning team of 1937.
- Derby lost 6-1 at home to non-league Boston in 1955-56.
- On Boxing Day 1977, Derby forced a goalless draw at QPR despite having Bruce Rioch and Charlie George sent off.
- The 80,407 gate at Maine Road for Derby's semi-final replay against Birmingham in March 1946 is a record for the FA Cup.
- Derby's 6-0 defeat by Bury in April 1903 is a record for an FA Cup Final.
- Jack Nicholas skippered Derby to their 1946 FA Cup Final win in his 19th season with the club.
