THE TODAY LEAGUE DIVISION ONE – SATURDAY 9 MAY 1987

EVERTON v LUTON TOWN

NEC

Howard Kendall

It has been a tremendous achievement by all concerned to win the League Championship for the second time in three years and for the ninth time in the club's history.

The celebrations at Carrow Road on Monday will go into the memory bank along with the other successful occasions we have enjoyed in recent seasons.

And I'm sure there will be more to come today and again on Monday when we complete what has been another marvellous season.

I would like to say a big "thank you" to the backroom staff, the players and, not least, the fans. The travelling support undoubtedly sparked us off in many key games in recent weeks, notably at Villa Park and at Norwich.

We couldn't have wished for a better start at Carrow Road. I sensed that the players were determined to get at them and it was a real boost when Pat Van den Hauwe popped up in the right place at the right time.

We virtually dominated the first half and had another effort cleared off the line, but Norwich are a good side with a very impressive home record. They came at us in the second half and we had to play well defensively to make sure of the points.

The journey home was certainly one to be enjoyed. Norwich is one of the longest trips of the season, but we didn't mind how far it was or how many traffic jams we met on the way home!

It was nice to relax and analyse how the season had gone. For certain individuals, it was the first time they had experienced success at this level, and for the others, who know what it is like to win honours, there was great satisfaction in being there again.

We have played entertaining football, we have scored more goals than any other First Division side and we have had outstanding contributions, not only as a team but as a squad. Everyone has played a part, including the lads who have moved to other clubs.

Right from the first day of pre-season, I felt there was a tremendous determination to make up for the disappointments of losing out to our great rivals from Anfield last year. The players were intent from the start on doing whatever they could to make sure we ended with a trophy this time.

To win the League, you have to be the most consistent side and whoever finishes on top deserves to be there. We can now enjoy the last two games of the season and already it's a pleasant thought to look forward to appearing in the FA Charity Shield for a fourth year in a row.

Obviously, there has been a bit of tension in recent weeks and that was probably most evident in the goalless game with Manchester City last Saturday.

We were all over the place at times - which is most unusual - and I can only think that the importance of the result got to the players.

We were also unsettled by Peter Reid's injury and then disappointed to lose Wayne Clarke, though what was thought to be a dislocated shoulder turned out to be less serious damage to ligaments. At the same time, the three England players were a little below par, probably because of some bug they picked up in Turkey. Trevor Steven, in particular, had a bad night on Friday.

In the end, we were grateful for a point after a couple of scares when City hit the woodwork. In fact, after playing badly by our standards, we actually increased our lead because of Liverpool's defeat at Coventry.

Graeme Sharp was able to return in place of Wayne Clarke at Norwich, but still we continue to have our injury troubles. Ian Marshall, who has had a groin problem all season, has now had an hernia operation.

Today, we welcome Luton Town, who still have a lot to play for because they are chasing their highest-ever position in the First Division.

They have established themselves in recent seasons, mainly, I think, because they bought Steve Foster, Peter Nicholas and Mick Harford to give them strength through the middle. Obviously, they have other good players, but the three I have mentioned did make a big difference.

GOODISON ROUND UP

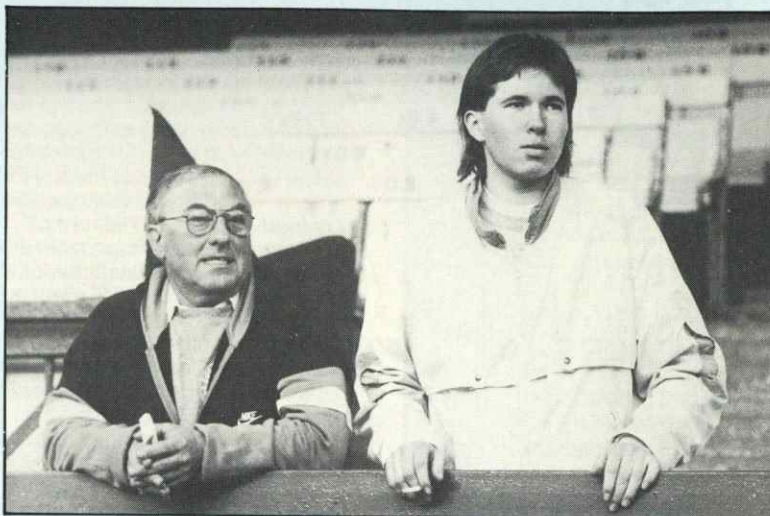

Everton Reserves 1 Denmark 0!

The pulling power of Everton was too good to resist for a Blues fan from Denmark.

Niels Olsen, from Broby, set out with a friend with the intention of coming to Merseyside to watch the Danish national team playing at Anfield in a friendly.

But when he discovered that Everton Reserves were at home that night, there was only one place for him... Goodison Park!

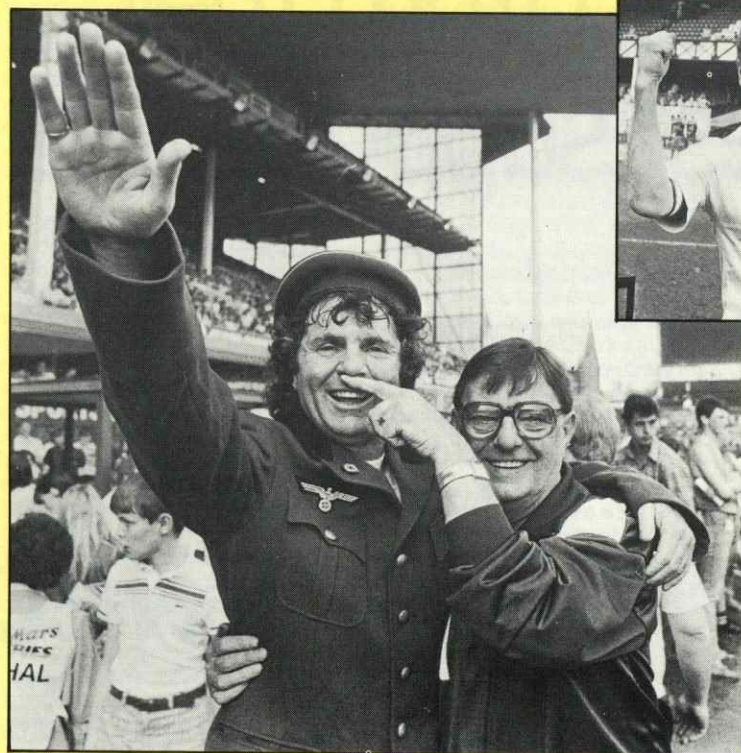

While his country's international stars were playing on the other side of Stanley Park, Niels (pictured here) preferred to take a look at his favourite English club, even if it was only a Central League match.

He certainly chose the right night in terms of the players on view. Among those in the team were Bobby Mimms, Pat Van den Hauwe, Derek Mountfield, Neil Pointon, Ian Snodin and Graeme Sharp.

Soccer Soaps!

Goodison Park was home for many of the stars of the small screen a fortnight ago.

Teams representing the popular soap operas played for charity in front of a crowd estimated at 8,000 and we are delighted to report that the organisers expect the NSPCC to receive as much as £30,000.

Pictured here are local comedian Stan Boardman sharing a joke with Bill Dean (Harry Cross of 'Brookside') and proudly displaying the Sugar Bowl Trophy won by the 'Albion Market' team are Billy Shire and former Goodison hero Duncan McKenzie.

Aussie Blues...

Steven Whitty aged 13, has been an Everton fan for as long as he can remember and yet he had never been to Goodison Park until he came along to last month's games against West Ham and Newcastle.

Mind you, there was a good reason for the delay - he lives 12,000 miles away in Australia!

Steven was born within half-an-hour's drive of Goodison but emigrated with his family 11 years ago. However, it was little wonder that he became an Evertonian because his father, Alan, rarely missed a match at Goodison.

The Whitty home, in Perth, Western Australia, is like a miniature Everton Souvenir Shop, with scarves, photographs and match programmes everywhere.

But that's not the same as the real thing and Steven couldn't wait for the day when he would be able to cheer the team he had previously seen only on television.

The dream came true when a month's family holiday was arranged with relatives just down the East Lancs Road at Lowton.

And to make it that extra bit special we invited Steven and his father behind the scenes on a matchday at Goodison.

Mr Whitty, who lived at Newton-le-Willows before starting a new life Down Under, told us that he watched The Blues from the early Sixties. It was a wrench to give up his football but he elected to emigrate because "it was better for the kids and my wife's family were already in Australia."

He keeps in touch with Everton affairs through the Football Echo, which is sent to him every week, and at midnight every Saturday he tunes into the BBC World Service for results and reports. "We've also seen quite a bit of Everton on the television," he added.

Our pictures (right) show Steven and his father meeting up with Gary Stevens and Kevin Ratcliffe and getting a taste of the atmosphere out on the pitch prior to the 4-0 win over West Ham.

Merseyside in particular, Lancashire as a whole and the North in general will hold a very special place when the oldest football league celebrates its 100th birthday next season.

* No other city can remotely match Merseyside's total of League Championships.

* No other county comes even close to the number of Championships won by Lancashire clubs.

* No other region can compare with the North's Championship roll of honour.

This is the 88th season for the Football League (11 were lost during two World Wars), and of the previous 87 Championships, more than a quarter were won by the two major Merseyside clubs.

The pattern outlined above is shown clearly by tables in three categories.

● METROPOLITAN AREAS

Merseyside: Liverpool 16, Everton 8. Total: 24.

London: Arsenal 8, Spurs 2, Chelsea 1. Total: 11.

West Midlands: Villa 7, Wolves 3, Albion 1. Total: 11.

North-East: Sunderland 6, Newcastle 4. Total: 10.

Manchester: United 7, City 2. Total: 9.

Sheffield: Wednesday 4, United 1. Total: 5.

Others: 17.

● COUNTIES

Lancashire: Liverpool 16, Everton 8, Man United 7, Man City 2, Blackburn 2, Burnley 2, Preston 2. Total: 39.

London: Arsenal 8, Spurs 2, Chelsea 1. Total: 11.

Yorkshire: Sheff Wed 4, Huddersfield 3, Leeds 2, Sheff United 1. Total: 10.

Warwickshire: Villa 7. Total: 7.

Durham: Sunderland 6. Total: 6.

Staffordshire: Wolves 3, Albion 1. Total: 4.

Northumberland: Newcastle 4. Total: 4.

Others: 6.

● REGIONS

North: 59.

Midlands: 14.

South: (including East Anglia): 14.

For the sake of argument, we felt it fair to include London in the county section, in which we also conformed to boundaries as they were until the changes in relatively recent times.

The northern traditions of the League – the 12 founder members were from Lancashire and the Midlands – is clearly evident in the distribution of the Championship honours. Indeed, 84 per cent of the title triumphs were won by clubs north of a line drawn from Birmingham to The Wash.

It should be stressed, however, that the London challenge did not begin until after the turn of the century. Arsenal were the first club from the Capital to play in the First Division in 1904 and were followed by Chelsea (1907) and Spurs (1909).

Many of the London clubs did not reach this level until the period between the wars and some had to wait until after the Second World War. Consequently, the North and Midlands had the title to themselves until Arsenal broke through in 1930-31, the first of five successes in eight seasons.

Portsmouth, Spurs, Chelsea and Ipswich added to three further Arsenal titles in the post-war years, but once again, the Northern domination, with some assistance from the Midlands, is strongly evident.

The last title to go south of Birmingham was won by Arsenal in 1971.

Now, as we begin to look ahead to the Centenary Season, wouldn't it be appropriate if the occasion was marked by a Championship for one of the founder members? Speaking a little selfishly, we couldn't think of anywhere better than Everton!

ONE POINT CLOSER...

Despite dropping two points in the goalless draw with Manchester City, Liverpool's defeat at Coventry meant that we edged a stop nearer the title. Here, Dave Watson puts in a challenge on City 'keeper Nixon. Below, Paul Power drives a free-kick at his former team-mates and, opposite, Trevor Steven and Clive Wilson battle for possession.

NEWS DESK

It seems that many football supporters have got the idea – wrongly, in our opinion – that the two major clubs in this city do not pay enough attention to local talent.

The issue was given headline treatment (below) on the Letters Page in a recent edition of The Football Echo.

We feel this subject is worthy of discussion by the club, but first, we need to outline the argument put forward by The Echo's correspondent, Stephen Darragh, of Liverpool 8.

Mr Darragh began by praising the standard of a match at Anfield between Liverpool and Sefton Junior Schoolboys and then suggested: "Unfortunately, most of these boys will never have a chance to display their talents in our two great teams."

He went on to note the high proportion of Merseysiders in the teams of Wigan, Tranmere and Chester, and then commented: "It makes you wonder what Everton, and more recently, Liverpool do to get these boys on their books. I believe it would boost attendances to have home-grown talent in their teams. It also would not cost the clubs a penny."

No one would argue that it is preferable to see as many local players as possible in our First Division team, but the inference that Everton do not look deep enough is rejected by our Youth Development Officer, Ray Minshall.

He makes the following points in reply to Mr Darragh's letter...

1 – A large number of the talented boys on view at Anfield are signed on schoolboy forms by Everton and Liverpool.

2 – Last year and this year, and also in the year we won the FA Youth Cup, 90 per cent of our youth players are local lads.

3 – At Everton, we have nine YTS boys, eight of whom are from the Merseyside area, and I'm sure the position is much the same at Liverpool. Of these local boys at Everton, John Ebbrell is in the England Under-17 team and Eddie Youds is in the squad.

4 – Any schoolboy who shows outstanding ability is most certainly offered the opportunity to join Everton, but some boys don't want to sign for their local clubs and we can't force them.

5 – Very few of those youngsters released by Everton go on to reach the very top of their profession, though naturally we hope they are able to earn a living from the game.

Mr Minshall also makes the point (with due respect to Chester, Tranmere and Wigan) that there is "a vast difference between teams at the very top of the most competitive league in the world and those in the lower divisions."

The subject is really about quality rather than any omission in the scouting network. Yet while both local clubs have a large percentage of players who were bought, the recent derby match surely showed that youth development is not forgotten.

Five of the 24 players on duty that day were brought up through the junior ranks, though, of course, Alan Harper and Steve McMahon are now on opposite sides to where they began as apprentices. The other former youth players involved were Kevin Ratcliffe, Gary Stevens and Gary Ablett.

So it should be clear that the clubs DO care about producing their own players. As Mr Minshall says: "There will always be exceptions, but generally speaking, all outstanding youngsters in this area are known to Everton Football Club."

ENGLAND BLANK...
The modest representation of Everton and Liverpool players in the England side would appear to be one of the ironies of another exciting League season for the Merseyside clubs.

Perhaps the situation at Liverpool is not so surprising because they have so many players qualified for the other countries, but in the case of Everton, the balance has shifted significantly since the World Cup.

From having four players in the quarter-final in Mexico – and despite signing Dave Watson – we had no-one in the starting line-up for the last four internationals.

Of course, it's not that Bobby Robson has any doubts about the ability at Goodison. There were many contributory factors.

First, there was Gary Lineker's transfer. Then, the injuries to Peter Reid and Gary Stevens after the World Cup. And this season, Trevor Steven originally lost his place through a minor knock and Dave Watson was unavailable for the Yugoslavia game after playing against Northern Ireland.

It seemed that things were taking a turn for the good when Peter Reid (pictured above) was named among four Everton men in the squad to travel to Turkey last week, but a nasty bang on the shin forced him to withdraw.

The pleasing aspect for Peter was to know he was in Mr Robson's thoughts. "My last game was in the Aztec Stadium last June and I've had a lot of problems since then," he said at the time of his selection. "But I don't look back and I'd love to have another England shirt."

With the Football League's Centenary season coming up, Everton Chairman Philip Carter, who is the current President of the League, took the opportunity of viewing the painting of William McGregor, the founder and first President of the League, when we visited Villa Park recently.

"Playing for England was not really in my mind when I came back. It was hard enough getting back in the Everton side and the fact that I was picked in the squad was a compliment to the other lads here. I struggled for a while and was lucky to have good players helping me through."

TRIBUTE TO KEVIN...
Gary Stevens was quick to point out the merit of Kevin Ratcliffe's achievement in setting an Everton club record of 40 international caps.

"That's a tremendous total when you think he's had no World Cup Finals or European Championships," said Gary. "If he'd been playing for England, he'd have 60-odd caps."

"Having played in the back four with Kevin (pictured left) for a few years, I know what a good player he is. In some ways, he's a little bit too quick for his own good because we tend to rely on him to clean up all the bits and pieces."

"He's talking to us all the time, as Peter Reid does in midfield, and his ability to take responsibility can be seen in the fact that he became captain of club and country at a very early age."

"Possibly, he's not had the general recognition he deserves because he hasn't been to a big championship, but Wales are getting a bit more publicity and all they need is one break to get through the barrier, as Northern Ireland did."

"Wales have got a tremendous defence – three of them from our club – and I reckon that Neville Southall will rival whatever number of caps Kevin finishes with. Neville could go on for another ten years in the way that Peter Shilton and Pat Jennings have done."

Gary, meanwhile, is not too disappointed to be part of England's shadow squad. "Sometimes," he says, "it is a bit frustrating not to be involved in the dressing room, but the fact that I got back in the squad so quickly after the injury was a nice bonus. In other words, Bobby Robson was saying I was part of the squad."

"It's only recently that I started to get back to anything like my best form and no one could quibble about Viv Anderson being in the side. I've always said that he has never let his country down."

NEWS DESK

THINKING OF ANDY...

Andy Gray's pals at Goodison will be sad for him if he has to go down into the Second Division with Aston Villa.

"It will be a shame if he's not gracing First Division grounds next season," said Adrian Heath. "I had a talk to him when we played at Villa, and though he was feeling very disappointed, he was philosophical about the situation."

"What did get to him was the unbelievable reception he got from the Everton fans. He was quite touched by that, but it was nothing more than he deserved. He created a great team spirit when he was here and it was a fabulous time for everyone."

"We became firm friends and we will have a night out together. It would be a shame if we don't see the big fellow here next season, but I'll bet he will be the scourge of the Second Division."

Two other Evertonians, one departed and one out on loan, have also been tied up with relegation worries. Warren Aspinall is partnering Andy Gray at Villa and Kevin Langley could be set for a permanent move to Manchester City.

"Going into the Second Division might not be so difficult for them because they are under no illusions after coming up from the lower divisions last season," says Adrian Heath.

"Both are with good clubs and there's no reason why they shouldn't bounce back. There are worse First Division teams than Villa and City must have a chance because of the sheer size of the place."

THANKS, ALAN...

Alan Harper (pictured below) was the subject for a neighbourly gesture by the fans on our doorstep.

The trophy he is seen receiving is for "the best all-round player of the 1987 season" ... "from the lads in The Wimslow". Which, of course, is the public house just across the road from Goodison.

Give youngsters chance to dream

AFTER watching a highly entertaining game at Anfield between Liverpool and Sefton Junior Schoolboys, Mr Darragh said: "Unfortunately, most of these boys will never have a chance to display their talents in our two great teams."

LUTON TOWN

Form-check...

Luton Town today bring down the final curtain on what could be best season in their 102-year history.

They are battling for their highest-ever placing and will achieve a club record by appearing in the First Division for a sixth successive season next August.

Previously, their best sequence was a five-year spell in which they finished eighth in 1957-58 and lost to Nottingham Forest in their one and only FA Cup Final appearance in 1959.

Football has changed a lot since that era and there's no doubt that Luton have changed more than most, with their artificial pitch and their innovative decision to make Kenilworth Road a members-only stadium.

Indeed, The Hatters have an undisputed claim to be the 'plastic pitch champions'. They have never lost a League game, home or away, to the synthetic surface pioneers, QPR, and their home record this season is second to none.

Up to last week-end, goalkeeper Les Sealey had kept a clean sheet 12 times at Kenilworth Road and the only home defeat was inflicted by Watford on Boxing Day. Everton, Liverpool and Spurs were beaten in the League, and of course, Liverpool also lost at Luton in the FA Cup.

Luton's achievements are all the more creditable in view of injuries to two of their most influential players. Last season's top scorer, Mick Harford, did not appear until December 28th, following four knee operations, and powerful centre half Steve Foster was ruled out from March 7th by a ruptured knee ligament.

Midfield man David Preece was also out for much of the season, but Irishman Ashley Grimes, who was plagued by back trouble in his first two years with the club, made a timely return, playing at full back and in midfield.

More recently, 22-year-old Stacey North has filled in successfully for Foster.

Transfers...

Soccer history is littered with examples of desperate spending in desperate situations.

But Luton Town shrewdly avoided that pitfall when they were anchored in the bottom four for a period of four months in the 1984-85 season.

They invested something like £600,000 on four new players and received value for every penny in their climb to safety and a place in the FA Cup semi-finals.

*STEVE FOSTER, who played in the World Cup Finals in Spain in 1982, revitalised his career after relegation with Brighton and an unhappy spell with Aston Villa.

*MICK HARFORD, a £250,000 buy from Birmingham City, scored 41 goals in 18 months and was named as a stand-by player for England's World Cup squad in Mexico.

*PETER NICHOLAS, who is now on the brink on his 50th appearance for Wales, was brought in from Crystal Palace for his ball-winning qualities in midfield.

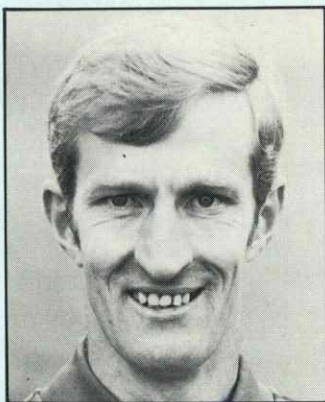

*DAVID PREECE, a Milk Cup semi-finalist with Walsall in 1984, stepped up from the Third Division and quickly established himself on the left side of midfield.

Luton got back a fair slice of their money by selling Frankie Bunn and Garry Parker (both Hull), Steve Elliott (Walsall), Vince Hilaire (Portsmouth), Wayne Turner (Coventry) and Paul Elliott (Aston Villa).

And the club went from strength to strength as the newcomers dovetailed with longer-serving players such as Mal Donaghy, Ricky Hill and Brian Stein, who graduated to international honours with Luton and helped the club to the Second Division championship in 1981-82.

In the last two years, Luton further strengthened their squad by going into the lower divisions to sign striker Mike Newell, who scored a hat-trick against Liverpool last October, and midfield pair, Darron McDonough and Robert Wilson.

The last major sale was that of Mitchell Thomas to Spurs for £250,000.

The Management...

John Moore answered the call when Luton Town came to terms with the loss of David Pleat and chief coach to Spurs last May.

The 43-year-old Scotsman was arguably the least-known manager in the First Division when he was promoted from his previous job as reserve team coach. And he has maintained the low-profile approach during an outstanding first season.

He makes sure the players get all the praise for their good performances, and on the less successful days, which haven't happened too often, his opinions are confined to the privacy of the dressing room.

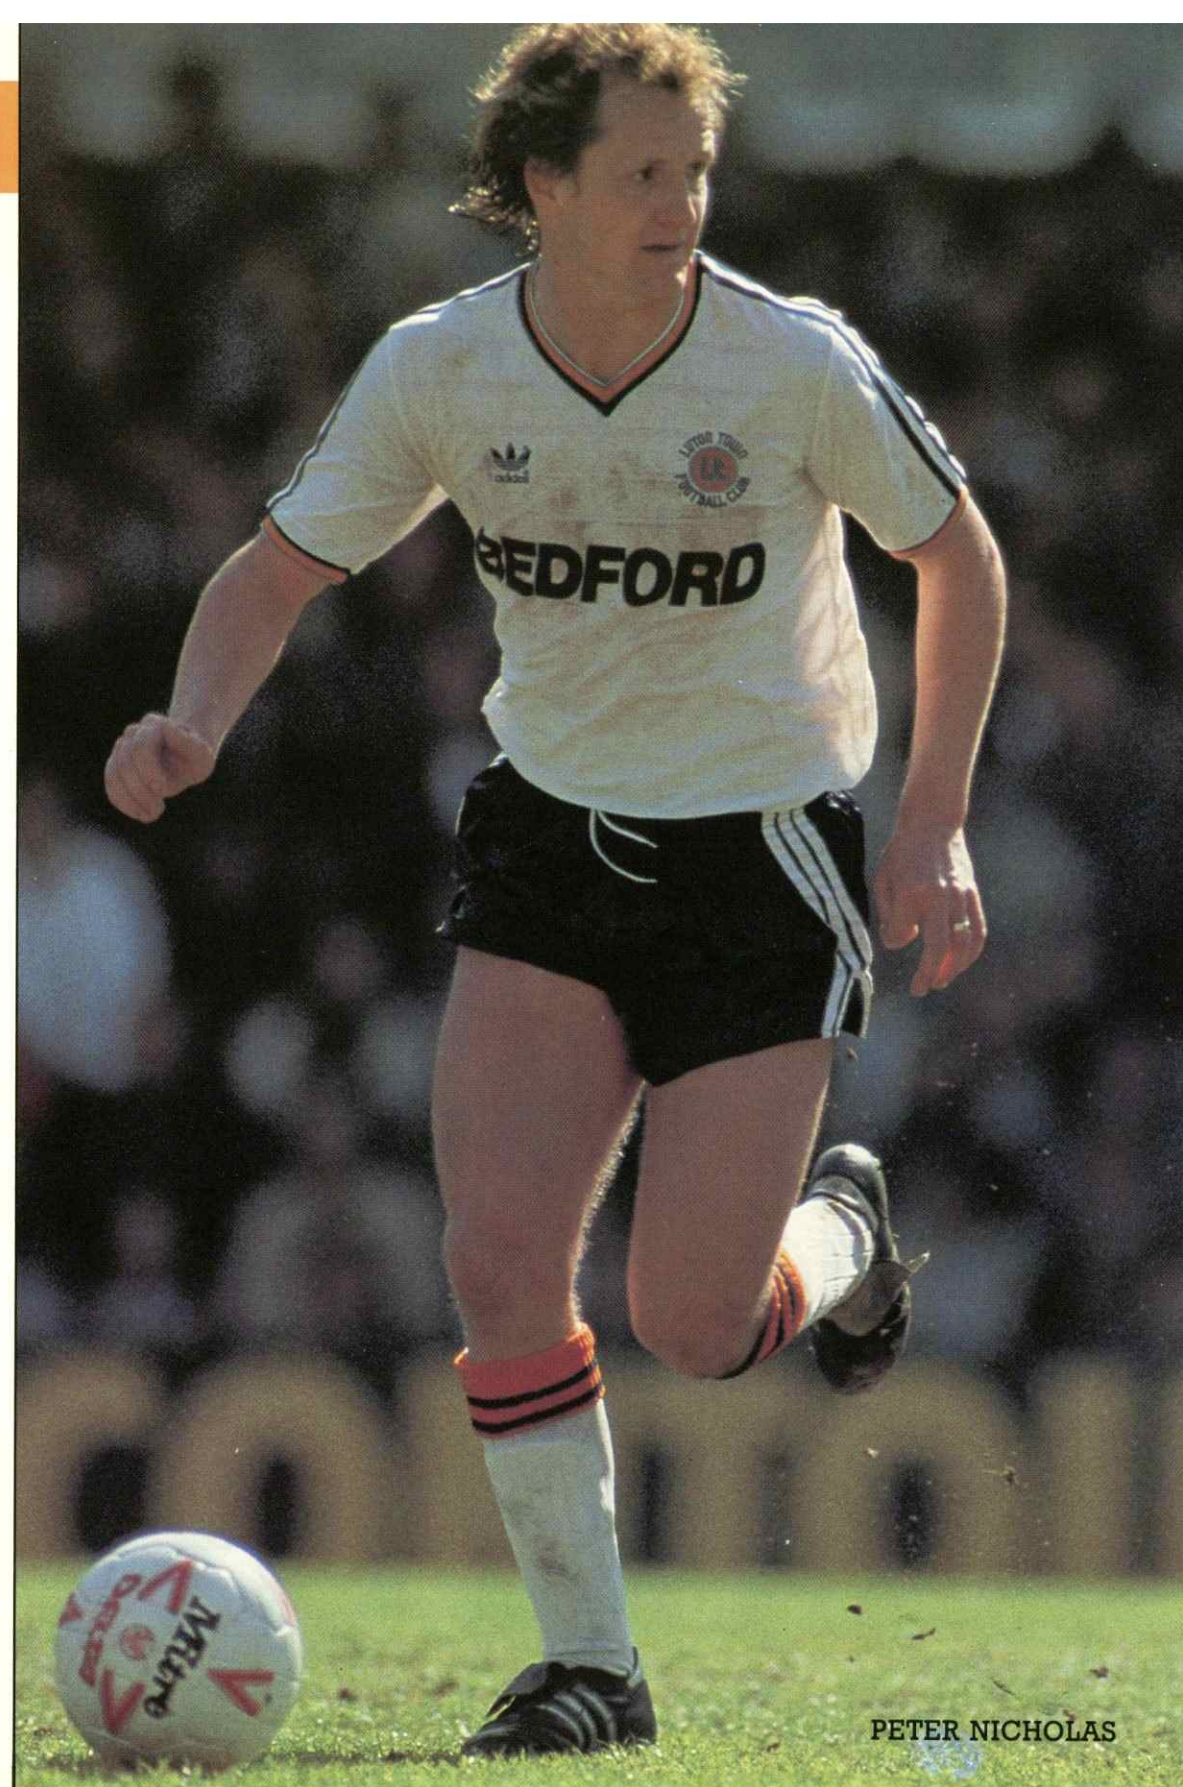

Mr. Moore hails from the Lanarkshire town of Harthill and started his playing career as a wing half with his local club, Motherwell. At the age of 21, he joined Luton just after they had been relegated to the Fourth Division and stayed for seven years, helping them back to Division Two while making 292 League appearances.

After spells with Brighton and Northampton, he returned in 1978 as a coach at the invitation of David Pleat and made a significant contribution to The Hatters' development by helping a number of talented young players through the reserve ranks.

When Mr. Pleat departed after just over eight years as manager, Mr. Moore was appointed as caretaker last May for what was described as 'a trial period'. In fact, that lasted for only a fortnight before he was confirmed as Luton's tenth post-war manager.

Dally Duncan and former player Syd Owen were in charge during their first-ever spell in Division One in the 1950s, and colourful characters, Alec Stock and Harry Haslam, were responsible for a healthy build-up during the 1970s.

Then David Pleat came along in January 1978 to establish a firm foothold in the First Division after a last-match escape from relegation in 1983.

PETER NICHOLAS

PAST & PRESENT

Down The Years...

● 5 YEARS AGO: Relegation-haunted Wolves caused a shock when Wayne Clarke opened the scoring for them in the fourth minute of the match at Goodison Park. Peter Eastoe later levelled the scores but we had to settle for a point.

Luton remained on top of the Second Division after winning 2-1 at Chelsea. Raddy Antic and Brian Stein scored their goals.

● 10 YEARS AGO: Bruce Rioch gave us an early lead against Coventry City at Goodison Park and that looked good enough to give us full points until Tommy Hutchinson equalised for the Sky Blues in the final minute.

Luton found themselves a goal down at home to Bolton when Peter Reid netted for the visitors in the eighth minute. But Luton earned a point thanks to a second-half equaliser from David Geddis.

● 15 YEARS AGO: The League season was already virtually completed and this was F.A. Cup final day. A goal from Allan Clarke gave Leeds a 1-0 win over Arsenal at Wembley.

● 20 YEARS AGO: Our 4-2 victory at Villa Park doomed Aston Villa to relegation to the Second Division. Jimmy Gabriel, Fred Pickering (2) and Jim Husband were the Everton marksmen.

Luton were held to a goalless draw at Chesterfield in Division Four.

● 25 YEARS AGO: The season was over apart from the confrontation between Burnley and Tottenham in the F.A. Cup final. Goals from Jimmy Greaves, Bobby Smith and Danny Blanchflower (penalty) gave Spurs a 3-1 win. Jimmy Robson scored for Burnley.

Wayne Clarke scored for Wolves at Goodison five years ago.

Played For Both Clubs...

BILLY BINGHAM played for both Luton and Everton and also enjoyed a spell as the Toffees' manager. A winger, Billy began his career with Glentoran and was transferred to Sunderland for £7,000 in 1950 at a time when the Roker Park club was known as the "Bank of England" side. Billy spent almost eight years with Sunderland before transferring to Luton for £15,000 in 1958. In 1959/60 he was the Hatters' top scorer and it was during the following season that he came to Everton in a £28,000 deal. Billy held his place in our first-team for three years and then moved on to Port Vale where he suffered the injury that was to bring his playing days to an end. He was capped for N. Ireland on 86 occasions. He later managed Southport, Plymouth, Linfield, Everton and Mansfield and he is now, of course managing the N. Ireland side for the second time.

JIMMY HUSBAND was a forward who developed in the junior sides at Goodison Park and went on to play for England at youth and under-23 levels. He made his League debut for Everton at Fulham in 1965 and won a League Championship medal with us in 1970. He eventually moved on to Luton for £70,000 in November 1973 and in 1975/76 he was the Hatters' leading scorer with 14 goals.

ANDY KING, a midfielder, had two spells with both clubs. He began his professional career with Luton and was transferred to Everton for £35,000 in 1976. After four years as a regular first-teamer here, he moved on to QPR for £425,000. West Bromwich signed him in September 1981 but ten months later he came back to Everton in an exchange deal. In 1984 he joined Dutch club Cambuur but he returned to England to sign for Wolves. Luton re-signed him in 1986 and he is currently with Aldershot in the Fourth Division.

BRUCE RIOCH led Luton's scoring list on two occasions before moving on to Aston Villa in 1969. Derby signed him in 1974 and it was in December 1976 that he arrived at Goodison Park. He played 30 League games for the Toffees but a year later he returned to Derby. Following loan spells with Birmingham and Sheffield United, Bruce joined Seattle Sounders but later returned to play for Torquay. He became Torquay's manager and is currently in charge of Middlesbrough's promotion-chasing side in Division Three. Bruce was capped by Scotland on 24 occasions.

HIGHLIGHTS

KEVIN SHEEDY and ANDRIAN HEATH are our leading scorers against Luton in League matches. In 1982/83, when we scored five goals in both games against the Hatters, Kevin scored once at Goodison Park and twice at Kenilworth Road. He netted again at Goodison Park last season to take his tally to four.

Adrian scored twice in our 5-0 win at Goodison in December 1982 and then got another two — one from the spot — when we won 3-0 at Kenilworth Road in April 1984.

BLUE MAIL

BLUE MAIL will be open for your news and views during the summer. Let's have plenty of letters to give us a good start for next season. Write to: Blue Mail, Everton FC, Goodison Park, Liverpool L4 4EL.

From: Roger L. Hand, Bramhall, Cheshire...

Last September I returned from a lengthy holiday abroad, unaware of injuries and new signings. Who were Adams, Langley, Power and Watson? What had happened to Stevens, Van den Hauwe, Mountfield, Bracewell and Reid? Who would have imagined then that Everton would be challenging for the championship at the end of the season?

All credit to Howard Kendall for some inspired purchases (most notably Paul Power) and to Colin Harvey and Mick Heaton for maintaining such high playing standards.

Kevin Sheedy, in particular, has been a delight to watch - how much better he looked in the centre of midfield - and Alan Harper has been a revelation.

Congratulations to ALL the players for a magnificent season.

From: Dave Sibson, 2 Farnham Drive, Brown Lees, Biddulph, Stoke-on-Trent, Staffs ST8 6TB...

Last year, through the Blue Mail column, I started off a North Staffs-South Cheshire travelling club to follow Everton FC, home and away.

We currently have a hard core of 15-20 members, but we need a lot more. We are based at the Crossways public house in Newcastle and we pick up also at Sandbach and Warrington.

We keep hearing of many people in our area - i.e. Stoke, Crewe, Stafford etc - who follow Everton and we'd like them to contact us so our small organisation can be bigger and better.

Those interested in joining for next season should write to me at the above address or to the Secretary, Mr Ian Smith, 22 Newlyn Avenue, Mossley, Congleton, Cheshire.

PS: Congratulations to the team on their championship bid. Howard Kendall and staff have done it the hard way - a major hiccup it may have been at Wimbledon but in the end, our concern has changed to joy.

Special mention to Dave Watson for his battle to settle into the Everton pattern and defying his weakening army of critics.

From: Conrad Moran, Bludellsands...

A few seasons ago there was a page in the programme in which an Everton player talked about a member of the opposition.

Would it be possible for next season's programme to have an article where an Everton player is compared with his opposite number? I think this would provide some interesting information for the fans. EDITOR: We will put your suggestion on our ideas list. Thanks.

From: Declan Murray, Waterford, Ireland...

During the season, a lot of praise has been given to the playing staff, and deservedly so, but I think that more recognition should be given to Howard Kendall.

While other managers have delivered promises of success, he has never looked any further than the next game. This attitude, plus his unique ability in getting the right players at the right time, means that Everton must command the most talented and efficient squad in the First Division.

Despite the injury crisis, Mr Kendall has always come up trumps with excellent replacements and each of the 23 players who have appeared in the League this season could command a place in any First Division side.

So praise must go to Howard Kendall and the other management staff for the high standards they have set and maintained throughout the season.

From: Bernard Riley, Old Hall, Warrington...

How can Clive Allen possibly get away with claiming a goal in the FA Cup semi-final? His shot was heading towards the right corner of the goal and it hit a defender and went into the left corner.

He may have beaten Jimmy Greaves' record of goals in a season but he'll never beat Dixie Dean's record. I wonder how many Dixie would have claimed if things had been the same in his day. His record would have been nearer 80 in a season.

From: Joanne Hannigan, Birkenhead...

First of all, I must congratulate you on your marvellous programme. It's first-class, just like Everton!

Secondly, I would like to thank Val and Tommy Murray who give me a lift to the home matches. They also get my tickets for me. Without them I wouldn't be able to go.

From: Debbie Copley, Ormskirk...

My dad and I have been discussing the points system. To be honest, we do not think it is fair.

I think that the following should be done...

Four points for an away win, as there is far more pressure on the away team. For example, if Everton were to play at Luton or QPR, they would have the plastic pitch to contend with, and if they were to play at Luton, they would not have any supporters to cheer them.

Two points for an away draw.

One point for a home draw.

Three points for a home win.

I know it's complicated but I do feel the idea has its good points.

Post War Players

ANTONY HASELTON continues his exclusive series on every player who has appeared for Everton since the Second World War. Any statistics involving current players are up to an including the end of the 1985-86 season.

VARADI, Imre

Imre, known as 'Ray' to his friends, was rescued in 1978 by Harry Haslam who was then manager of Sheffield United.

Non-league Letchworth Town no longer required his services but Haslam spotted his potential and brought him to Bramall Lane.

After ten games for the Blades he signed for Everton in 1978 for £80,000. His greatest asset was his electrifying pace, which left defenders flat-footed.

Born in London of Hungarian parents, his most memorable moment was when he scored in Everton's 2-1 victory over Liverpool in the F.A. Cup in 1981. Later that year he joined Newcastle United for £125,000 and later played for Sheffield Wednesday and West Brom.

VEALL, Ray

Ray made eleven appearances on the left-wing in Everton's championship season of 1962-63.

He was signed from Doncaster in 1961, and scored one goal for Everton against Nottingham Forest when Everton won 4-3 at the City Ground. He left for Preston North End in 1965, and then moved to Huddersfield.

VERNON, Roy

Roy topped Everton's scoring charts four times between 1961 and 1964, notching 24 goals in Everton's 1963 Championship success.

He made his league debut as an 18-year-old in 1955 for Blackburn Rovers. In 1960 his old manager, Johnny Carey, persuaded him to sign for Everton for £27,000 and Eddie Thomas in part-exchange.

Roy was an expert at penalty kicks and was a brilliant striker of a dead ball. He moved to Stoke in 1965 for £40,000, and finished his career at Halifax.

in 1963 and later played for Wrexham, Doncaster, Chester and Stockport.

WEST, Gordon

Gordon West was Harry Catterick's first signing for Everton when he joined the Blues in 1962 for a then record fee for a goalkeeper of £27,000.

He was a strong keeper who was spectacular at times. He immediately took over from Albert Dunlop on signing and within 12 months he had a championship medal.

Gordon played in the 1966 and 1968 F.A. Cup Finals and was ever-present in Everton's 1970 championship success.

With the arrival of David Lawson in 1972, West lost his place and retired after nearly 400 games for Everton and three England Caps. In 1975 he made a brief comeback with Tranmere Rovers.

WHITTLE, Alan

Alan was an exciting prospect when he made his debut in a 6-2 victory over West Brom in 1968.

His consistent scoring record at the end of the 1969-1970 season was a big factor in Everton's title win. Thereafter, his form though was erratic and in 1972 he was sold to Crystal Palace. He later played for Sheffield United and Bournemouth before trying his luck in Australia.

SPOTLIGHT...

Ian Snodin had a stock answer in the careers lessons at school: "I'm going to play football".

Perhaps there was a wry smile from his teacher who had heard the same story from many other 15-year-olds and then shared their disappointment as they went off to work in the pits or steelmills around Rotherham.

But Ian was the exception, the one with the determination and ability to reach his goal. Only the speed of his progress was a surprise, for within eight months of leaving school, he made his debut in the Fourth Division with Doncaster Rovers.

"My dad's a miner and he always said that going down the pit wasn't the place to work," says Ian. "Some of the lads from my school did go into the mines, but all I ever thought about was being a footballer."

And in his case, he was only following the example of his elder brother, who played for Rotherham Boys and then signed for Doncaster. When Ian first started playing in the local leagues, he was used to people saying, "that's the brother of Glynn Snodin."

His schoolboy career took him to the fringe of the Rotherham Boys team – "I was very small and they tended to pick the bigger lads" – but when he was 14, Glynn introduced him to Doncaster Rovers. Stan Anderson was the manager at the time but he left before Ian signed schoolboy forms.

HAPPY AT DONCASTER

● Instead it was Billy Bremner who put him on the books in February 1979 and then gave him an apprenticeship in August that year.

Rotherham were the only other club to make an approach, but Ian says: "I was happy at Doncaster, knowing all the players through training there. Even if anybody else had come in, I would still have signed for Doncaster."

Mr Bremner was to become a major influence for nearly eight years. Ian credits him for shaping his career as a teenager, for putting his name forward for England Under-21 selection and for encouraging him with the captaincy of Leeds United when they linked up at Elland Road in 1985.

"He has helped my career more than anyone so far," says Ian. "I owe an awful lot to him and it's still nice to keep in touch with him.

"He's a great motivator who knows how to get the best out of players. He notices everything that happens on the field. If the side is attacking, he'll watch the players at the back to see if they are picking up people, and then he'll come in at half-time and tell you things you hadn't seen yourself."

It was when Doncaster were on the FA Cup run that brought them to Goodison in January 1985 that Ian became the subject of transfer speculation. He'd been linked with other clubs for two years but it was only then that something concrete happened.

In the end, he was given a choice. Not quite as tantalising as Everton or Liverpool this year but still a very important decision.

"It was either West Brom or Leeds," he recalls. "I went for Leeds because I felt they were as big a club, if not bigger, and were possibly on the verge of getting back into the First Division. The other thing was that I only had to sign a two-year contract with them whereas it would have been four years with West Brom."

"As it turned out, I think I did the right thing. Johnny Giles soon went as manager of West Brom and they ended up in the Second Division. So I could still have been there in a struggling side with two years of a contract left."

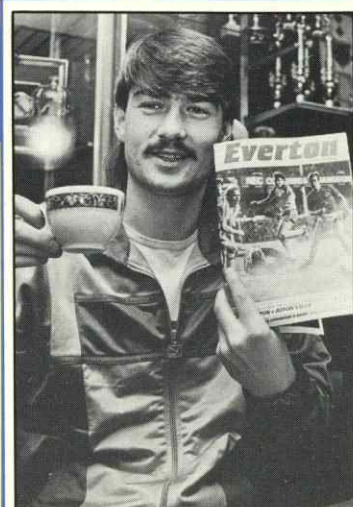

Ian's fee was a record for Doncaster, topping the price that Sheffield Wednesday paid for his brother, and he was pleased that the deal was good for all concerned.

"They got Glynn and myself for nothing and we were grateful to them for signing us," he says. "Then, they got a fair bit of money for us and that was just reward for them. I still follow Rovers and I go to their mid-week matches whenever I can."

Billy Bremner was the manager who sold Ian to Leeds but within three months he was in charge at Elland Road. Almost straightaway, he made Ian captain instead of Peter Lorimer, but the first season was not an easy one.

"There were players he wanted and players he didn't want. So we struggled at first but towards the end, results picked up and there were signs he was getting a team together."

Promotion became a distinct possibility this season, but Ian was not to be part of the final push. Once again, he was the centre of transfer talk, though he was taken aback when Mr Bremner informed him he had agreed terms with Everton AND Liverpool.

"I'd read a lot about Everton's interest but not so much of Liverpool's," he says. "It never really affected me when there was all the talk of my going, and in any case, I didn't think Leeds were ready to sell. I thought they would wait until the end of the season, but they needed the money to strengthen their side and The Boss thought it would be a good move for me."

A BIG STEP...

● It was a big step moving into the First Division with a championship-chasing club and only now does he feel he is settling in after four months here.

"I found the first month very hard," he says. "I didn't know anybody, apart from Bobby Mimms, and I didn't know what to expect at a top club. It did take time to adjust. I wasn't playing all that well and I just concentrated on doing the simple things."

"But it is bit easier now. I know the lads, and I know what the gaffer and the club want. It will also help when I move house after the summer tour. That will be better for both parties."

"It's tremendous club with a lot to look forward to. It's terrific that despite all the injuries we have remained at the top. Every player is a good player, and it must be a great feeling for The Boss to have 16 or 17 to pick from."

Ian Snodin

IN RESERVE

The younger players added to their experience by playing in an Easter Youth Tournament in Spain.

With only seven YTS trainees available for the trip, we brought the squad up to 16 by calling in local players and two goalkeepers from other League clubs - Dave Fantom, of Blackburn, and Lee Pratt, of Grimsby.

The tournament was centred on San Sebastian but the matches were spread around Northern Spain.

"The biggest disappointment was the quality of the pitches," said coach Graham Smith. "The grounds themselves were very nice, but the pitches were narrow and bumpy. This was a problem for us because we like to get people wide, particularly as most of the teams there played with a sweeper."

The first two games, against Real Madrid and Manchester United, were drawn, but we were beaten in the last match by Euskadi, a representative side drawn from some of the best young Basque players.

After a slow start against Real Madrid, who scored from a corner, we gave a much-improved performance in the second half. "We started to get some crosses into the box and that tends to upset the sweeper system," said Graham. "In the end, a draw was not a bad result against a side of their quality."

But the best display was undoubtedly in the 0-0 draw with Manchester United, who eventually went through to the final before losing to Torino. Incidentally, the other English club, Nottingham Forest, did not win a game.

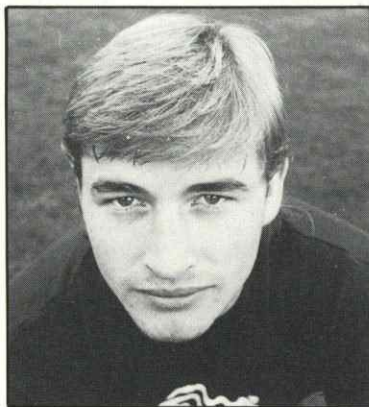

"We met United on a very bumpy pitch, and if there was any football played, it was by us," reported Graham. "I was extra pleased because United had a team of professionals whereas we had taken one or two schoolboys."

"I couldn't fault our attitude and determination. Eddie Youds had a brilliant game despite having a head wound. This bled profusely but he kept going for the headers."

The final match was more a test of stamina than anything. We played on a bigger pitch, which was dry and hard, and the sun was beating down throughout.

"By that time - and remember it was our third game in three days - the legs had gone," said Graham. "But we played quite well until the last 20 minutes, when Euskadi scored a breakaway and a free kick."

The trip gave Graham and Youth Development Officer Ray Minshall a chance to bring John Toshack up to date with Merseyside news. The former Liverpool striker is manager of the local club, Real Sociedad, and the Everton officials enjoyed a pleasant dinner with him on one of the nights.

GARY POWELL
Scored in Spain and at Old Trafford

"It was good experience for me, listening to his views on the game," said Graham. "One thing he did say was that the Basques are the best professionals in Spain because they are prepared to work hard, as British players do."

● On returning home, some of the players were pushed straight into a busy period in the Central League. In fact, seven of them were involved in a very difficult game against a powerful Manchester United side at Old Trafford.

Though we had a reasonable core of experience, United finished the stronger team and won 4-1.

"They scored after two minutes but there were no more chances in the first half," said coach Terry Darracott. "We worked hard without creating a lot and United had a lot of possession as the game went on."

"The meant we had a lot of chasing to do on a very hot day, but we got level with a smashing goal and it was well deserved for all our hard work. Jimmy Carberry got in a good cross and it was finished off by Gary Powell."

"However, we ran out of steam in the last 20 minutes and I have to say that we were over-run in that time."

"Even so, there were some good individual performances. John Ebbrell was outstanding, for a young lad in that company; Derek Mountfield was very strong; and Neil Adams had his best game for some time."
