OFFICIAL AWARD-WINNING MATCH-DAY MAGAZINE OF LEICESTER CITY F.C.

Ever I needed reminding that managers are given, at a conservative estimate, approximately 10 minutes to sort out everything, then this has been brought home to me since I have come to Leicester.

In my first four weeks of management at Filbert Street we played no fewer than six games, went through a Christmas and New Year festive programme and suffered an additional two postponements.

All of this meant that events were extremely hectic and decisions had to be made without the kind of background and thought I would normally like to have at my disposal.

That's why the two-week break since our goalless draw with Sunderland has been something of a god-send.

It has given me a little time to take stock of the situation and allow myself to think ahead and map out our plans between now and the end of the season in a less frenetic atmosphere.

For me, this is only the second time I have switched clubs as a manager in mid-season and the comparisons could hardly be more diverse.

Six years ago I joined Wycombe in mid-February with the club in 16th place in the Conference.

My immediate aim there was nothing more than to avoid relegation before I even started to think about promotion the following season.

Here at Leicester, expectations are so much higher. And rightly so. Part of the attraction in coming here is the desire to do well and compete in the Premiership.

Our aims now are no different than they were at the start of the season. Nothing has changed.

Certainly at the start of this season Leicester's form was excellent and was reflected in excellent results.

But once you set yourself a standard and a particular playing style clubs will instantly do their best to combat that. That is what I think was beginning to happen here before my arrival. 99 and we were able to speak to them and learn what makes them tick.

“But once you set yourself a standard and a particular playing style clubs will instantly do their best to combat that. That is what I think was beginning to happen here before my arrival. 99

I looked back through the results and for the final four games under the previous management, Leicester did not win once.

I remember speaking with other managers about Leicester and about how they would try to counter-act them.

I have to say that clubs were starting to achieve some success in that. They concentrated on putting a lot of players behind the ball and allowed Leicester to pass the ball in front of them.

It is clear to me that we now need to reassert ourselves in the promotion frame and come again. To do that, adjustments have to be made.

The last two weeks have allowed us to take a close look at the tactics we shall be using and the personnel themselves.

Our trip to Bournemouth was excellent in that respect. It gave an opportunity for us to look at the players in a more relaxed environment.

They had the chance to open up more and we were able to speak to them and learn what makes them tick.

I'm a great believer that one of the keys to success in the final 20 matches of the season which we start today is spirit and passion.

These ingredients will help us to launch ourselves as promotion challengers again. We are looking to develop more passion and desire - the like of which we produced in the last 45 competitive minutes against Sunderland.

I'm sure you as supporters will always respect passion and commitment to the Leicester City cause.

I well remember playing in a Championship-winning side whose name I won't mention and that one of the main ingredients of our success was our ability to battle for results when circumstances didn't allow for free-flowing football.

Grinding out results is an asset that no promotion or championship-winning team can do without and it is something which we need to add to our armoury.

Cynics might say that passion alone does not win you football matches. Well, technique alone will not be good enough either. The successful sides are the ones who are able to marry the two together.

What has pleased me, though, is the way the team spirit has remained largely unaffected by the events of mid-season.

In a football environment, even the slightest change can be greatly magnified. Over the past couple of years, the players here have had to undergo a great many upheavals.

They had several excellent seasons under Brian Little, then came a change in style, and then a change of management again 12 months later.

All this can be very unsettling but the overriding spirit throughout the ranks has held up extremely well.

We're looking to build on that spirit and build on that passion which will then enable us to develop to another level so that we can again stay ahead of our opposition.

Given the speculation surrounding several of my players, I also feel this is an appropriate opportunity to put the record straight on a few issues.

In particular, I have been very interested to hear of the comments attributed to Wolves manager Mark McGhee.

It has been reported that I am the person responsible for leaking details of any proposed transfers involving some of my players.

And there was silly old me thinking that it was Mark who had gone public on the issue.

But let us not end these notes on such trifling matters. What matters is this afternoon's game.

Luton have produced some excellent results recently. Under Lennie Lawrence they are battling for their lives.

We must demonstrate to Luton that we are prepared to battle just as much to achieve our objective of clinching a place in the Premiership.

Form the second half of the Sunderland game, I have seen how well you respond to a committed performance. It is up to us to activate you. And that's exactly what we intend to do.

Front cover caption: Julian Joachim battles for the ball in the 1-1 draw with Luton at Kenilworth Road earlier this season.

I am pleased to welcome our match sponsors for this afternoon's match who are C.J. Upton & Sons Ltd.

STEVE Walsh has many fond memories of Luton Town ... and he's hoping another milestone will be able to go down in his scrapbook today.

The Hatters have figured prominently in Walsh's City history as the defender now recalls.

"When I signed from Wigan, my debut for Leicester was in the old Division One against Luton.

"Three years ago we played Luton in the first game of the season and I scored in a 2-1 victory.

"Then earlier this year our trip to Kenilworth Road co-incided with my 300th League game for Leicester.

"I should have celebrated another record that day - my 50th goal. Unfortunately, I headed over when I was in a good position so I had to wait until the trip to Barnsley."

Not only does Walsh have many fond memories of Luton ... he also knows nearly half the team.

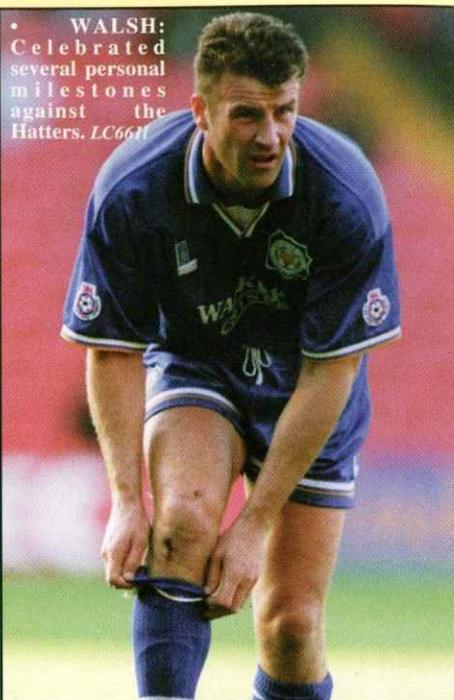

"I was here when Scott Oakes, Des Linton and Tony Thorpe were all youngsters at Filbert Street. Plus, of course, there's David Oldfield.

"So, in terms of knowing about the opposition there can't be many other clubs with whom we're as familiar.

"I'm sure we'll all have a drink together after the game but it's business as usual at kick-off time.

"Luton have had some useful results under Lennie Lawrence and it was a big win for them in midweek over Sheffield United.

"We perhaps owe them one because we didn't play at all well at Luton earlier this season at Kenilworth Road.

"In fact, it was probably one of our worst performances of the season. The only redeeming feature was that we scraped a point out of the game. Hopefully, you'll see a very different City side this afternoon."

WALSH: Celebrated several personal milestones against the Hatters. LC66h

CITY'S mini-break in Bournemouth proved a useful morale-booster ... and produced a fair share of amusing anecdotes. City skipper Garry Parker was inevitably involved in most of them.

And one, in particular, produced more than a few laughs when Steve Walsh was caught out of his depth.

In the swimming pool one day, Walshie was keen to demonstrate his prowess at holding his breath underwater.

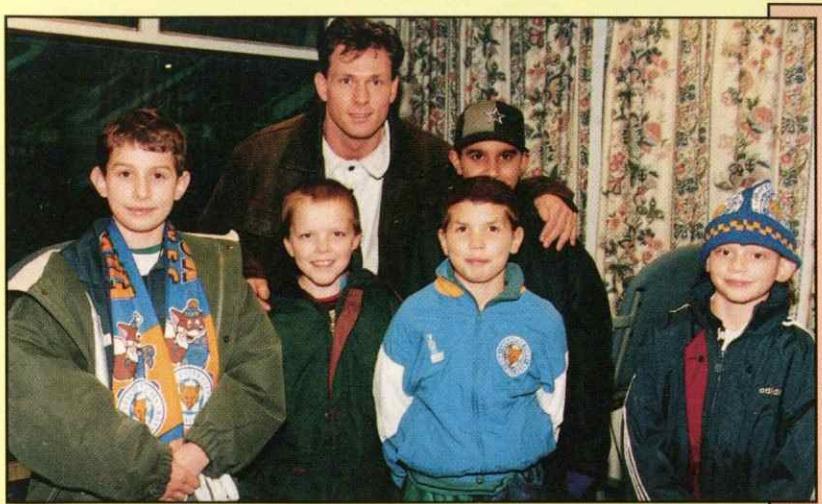

"Parks, see how long I can stay under water," asked Walshie who duly submerged himself.

Rather than operate the stop clock, 'Parks' and the rest of the lads made a swift exit.

A while later, Walshie met up with the lads again.

"I knew you'd gone really," he said. "I heard you leaving while I was underwater."

Steve obviously has a very acute sense of underwater hearing.

IWAN Roberts has set his scoring sights on a 20-goal target to help City reach the Premiership.

The Welsh international is confident that he can complete his second highest goals tally in a career spanning Watford, Huddersfield and City.

So far, the six feet three inch centre forward has claimed 14 and said Roberts: "My best ever season was 34 with Huddersfield four years ago.

"After that, my highest was 18 with Watford. I've got 12 in the League and a total of 14 so far this season and I'll be bitterly disappointed if I don't reach at least 20.

"Alan Birchenall offered me a free meal at his pub (Birch's hostelry gets everywhere in this programme, Ed) if I can get 20 goals this season.

"I hope he's made the reservations for me and the missus."

Ironically, Roberts is currently in the middle of his worst run of the season - five games without a goal.

"The last time I scored was in the 2-2 draw at Grimsby just before Christmas," explained Roberts.

"I'm concerned, of course, but I'm not overly worried because I've at least been having the chances.

"I'd be a lot more worried if I wasn't getting into the positions to score. Really, that's symptomatic of the whole team.

"A lot of people are making a lot of the fact

ROBERTS: Set himself a 20-goal target. LC650h

PONTUS Kaamark is banking on the healthy Scandinavian air and countryside to speed up his recovery. City's Swedish international is back in his native Gothenburg after undergoing knee surgery last week. He's been ordered to take a complete rest for six weeks and said Pontus: "The doctors have told me that the operation was a complete success.

"It was a major operation so I know that it is going to be a long and frustrating road back to a full recovery.

"But I'm sure that I will be able to come back and hopefully it will be when Leicester are in the Premiership.

"It's very frustrating to think I have played less than two games since my arrival but that's how cruel football can be sometimes.

"I shall be staying over in Sweden for six weeks and then I will be returning to Leicester in five weeks' time to start my rehabilitation programme."

One of Kaamark's final tasks was to carry out a public appearance for Leicester Royal Infirmary youngsters on the eve of his operation.

Pontus visited eight youngsters in our Charnwood Suite during the reserves Pontins League Division Two victory over York.

OUR next two scheduled home games are both subject to the results of FA Cup fourth round ties this week.

Our re-arranged Division One game with Oldham Athletic is due to take place at Filbert Street on Wednesday February 14, while three days later we should face Port Vale on Saturday February 17.

However both these clubs are still involved in the FA Cup.

If Vale beat Everton on Wednesday night it will mean the postponement of our fixture with them as this is fifth round weekend.

Oldham travel to Swindon for their fourth round tie and if this ends in a draw the replay will take precedence over the February 14 League fixture.

we haven't scored as a team for four games but it's not like we've been penned in our own half and never had a chance.

Ironically, Roberts is currently in the middle of his worst run of the season - five games without a goal.

"We're working hard for each other and I'm sure the goals are going to come. Overall, I'd have wanted to score more but I'm relatively satisfied given that I didn't even start off in the team for the opening games.

"Last year in the Premiership was my lowest-ever return for a season of 11 goals. At least I've beaten that already and we've only just started February."

Indeed, Roberts believes that it's almost like the second half of the season is about to get underway today for City. The players enjoyed a three-day break in Bournemouth earlier this week and said Roberts: "It was good for team morale.

"It brought the players and the new management team closer together and a few home truths were spelled out.

"We had several group meetings and the manger told us what was required from us between now and the end of the season.

"We've spoken about taking 10 points out of the next 12. Three of the next four are at home and it's important we capitalise upon that."

MANY people might have thought it happened a long time ago ...

... but England youth striker Emile Heskey finally celebrated his 18th birthday only last month.

Emile came of age on Thursday January 11. And, to mark the occasion as our picture shows above, he was presented with a special cake by the club.

In fact, it was a surprise all round for the former City of Leicester School pupil who has represented England at under 16, under 17 and under 18 level.

"It was college day so I turned up for lessons at the club and found out that the classroom had been decked out in all the party gear.

"Then I was given a cake at lunchtime. It was really embarrassing," said Emile.

The youngster now hopes he has shrugged off an ankle injury which has been troubling him.

"Originally, I did it at Grimsby but then I aggravated the injury in a reserve game at Preston.

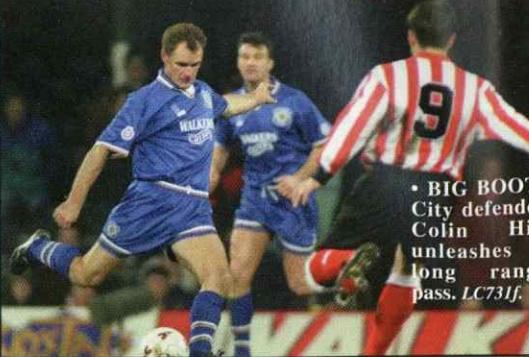

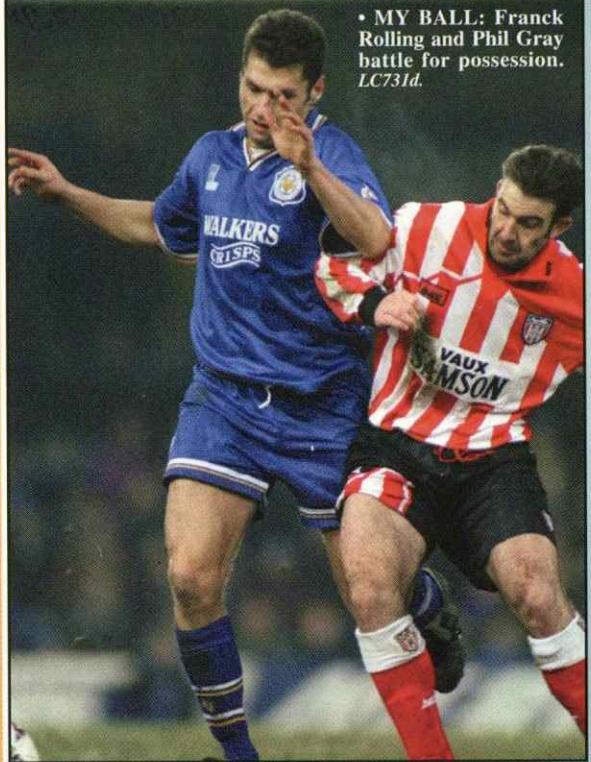

"It affected the amount of training I could do but the recent two-week break has done me a power of good.

"I suffered no reaction in the reserves game against York 10 days ago and there have been no problems since."

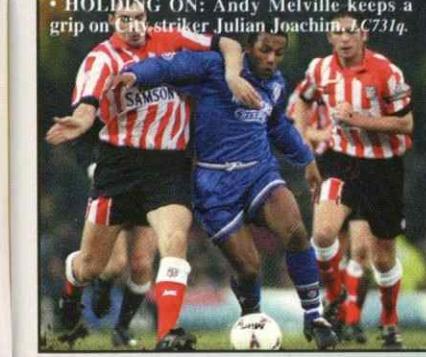

Martin O'Neill (City manager)
"On the strength of our second half performance we ought to have won it. We created enough chances again and I'm sure that Peter Reid was very relieved to get away with a point out of this one. We need to get the ball into the danger areas more quickly and when we did do that we caused problems for Sunderland. Defensively I felt we looked solid, now we've got to start scoring again"

"It was a good point for us but I was very disappointed with the sending off of Gareth Hall in the last minute of his full debut for us. We stuck to our guns and battled well at what is always a very difficult place to come to. After our defeat to Norwich at Roker Park and the cup exit at Manchester United the last thing we wanted was three successive defeats in a week."

GRIMSBY fans have gone cup crazy and ditched Harry Haddock in favour of the Italian flag.

In recent seasons, Mariners fans have used thousands of inflatable plastic fish - nicknamed Harry Haddocks - as lucky mascots on their cup campaigns.

Now, thanks to the arrival of cult hero Ivano Bonetti from Italy, the Town faithful have bought every Italian flag they can lay their hands on.

Thousands will be on display when Grimsby face West Ham in their fourth round FA Cup tie, later this week at Upton Park.

QPR have been strongly linked with a move for Millwall's inform Scotland under-21 international Alex Rae.

The Lions want £1.5 million for the midfield player and their Premiership neighbours are hoping that Millwall's recent investment in Russians Sergei Yuran and Vasili Kulkov will force them to cash in on Rae.

SUNDERLAND'S out of favour midfielder Gordon Armstrong has joined former Roker assistant Ian Atkins on loan at Northampton.

The long-serving Geordie boy has lost his place to former Leicester favourite Steve Agnew and is available for transfer.

Armstrong said: "I am grateful for the chance of first team football and Northampton have a great set-up and are a very useful team.

"But I would hope to land a move to the first or second division if at all possible."

GOALKEEPER Alan Knight has won himself a place in the record books.

The Pompey number one broke the record number of appearances for one club when he played his 601st game for Pompey last month.

That broke the previous best of 600 games which was held by famous Chelsea keeper Peter Bonetti.

Knight, 34, made his debut for the South Coast club as a 16-year-old and admitted: "It was a very special day for me. My biggest regret is that I've only played one season in the Premiership.

"My ambition is to get Portsmouth back into the top flight."

CRYSTAL Palace defender Dean Gordon hopes he is the next of the young Eagles to fly the nest.

He has been linked with a move to Middlesbrough and Gordon believes that could be his gateway to a place in the England side.

Gordon said: "That's my aim and I don't think it's out of my reach. I've got to be playing in the Premiership to have any hope of England though.

"I heard that Middlesbrough made inquiries and I'd jump at the chance of going there."

OLDHAM boss Graeme Sharp believes the club's future is in good hands after a spell of financial restructuring.

The Latics boss admits that Oldham have had to tighten their belts since relegation from the Premiership.

Sharp explained: "Yes, we had a lot of players on high wages from when we were in the Premiership and have since had to slash the wage bill.

"Unfortunately this led to us selling Richard Jobson and Paul Bernard this season.

"But we've been pretty fortunate in the last four or five years with a lot of good youngsters coming through and we have a lot of faith in them."

I REMEMBER WHEN

by JACK CURTIS

CITY and Luton have become synonymous with high-scoring games ... at both professional and schoolboy level, says City's Mr Memory Man Jack Curtis who turns the spotlight on his usual diverse range of soccer anecdotes. Jack recalls the time when Alan Birchenall gave out free crisps and the day he had to rush to London to deliver some special astroturf boots just two hours before kick off.

he knew the way to Loftus Road.

He turned out to be a postman who knew a quick route to avoid the traffic. So I gave him a fiver and asked him to get in the car with me and direct me there.

We made it in the nick of time and delivered the boots. Unfortunately there wasn't a happy ending to this particular rescue mission because we still lost.

The experiment with artificial pitches didn't last that long. One of the complaints about them was that the ball used to bounce too high. Luton tried to combat that by sprinkling sand over the surface and then watering it to deaden the bounce.

As I say, they have always been a club ready to experiment and try new ideas and I welcome them and their new manager Lennie Lawrence here today.

Hopefully, it will be a game containing a few goals although not as many as that schoolboy match at Kenilworth Road I mentioned at the start of this column.

This year of course is the 50th anniversary of that successful Leicester Boys side, and we plan to organise a special Golden Jubilee dinner at some stage to celebrate.

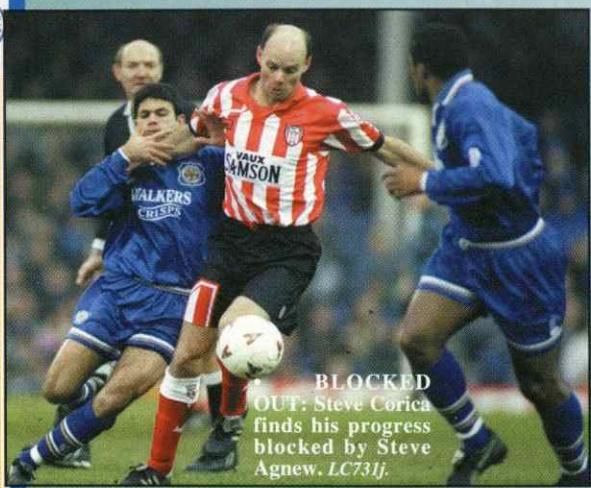

People have often said that schoolboy footballers don't make the grade at senior level. But the photograph on this page is proof of how many youngsters did graduate through Leicester Schools to become professionals at Filbert Street.

One of Leicester's major opponents at schoolboy level over the years was Swansea. For some reason we were frequently drawn against each other in competitions.

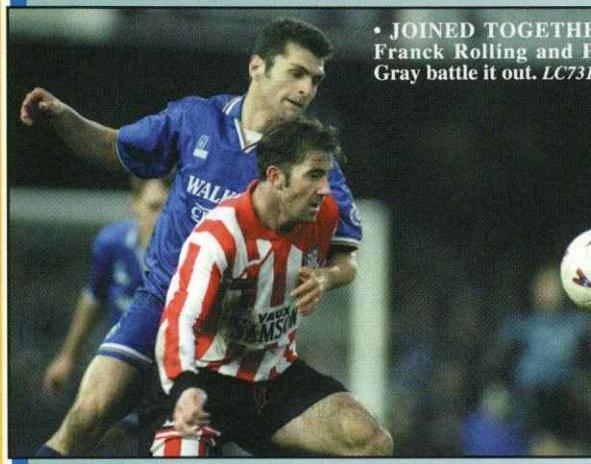

And they are certainly proof of how schoolboy footballers can go on to make it to the highest level in the game. Just think of who played for Swansea boys...John and Mel Charles, Len and Ivor Allchurch, Cliff Jones. One could go on and on.

I've often thought that, had Swansea been able to retain all the star players that they had, they would have been one of the top clubs in the country for many, many years.

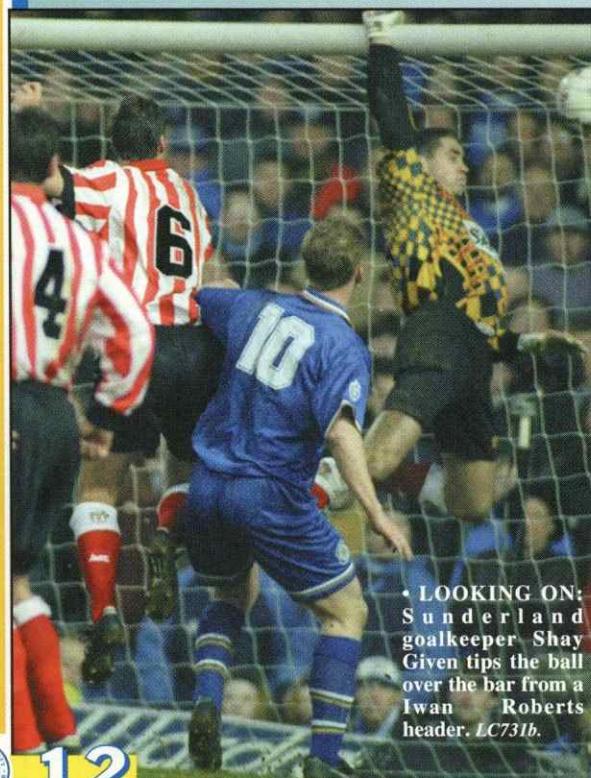

But I believe the Leicester Schools Football Association has been just as strong and the fact that, as the photograph shows, seven boys were all on the books of Leicester City at the same time is testimony to that.

INTRODUCING LUTON TOWN

Lennie Lawrence can look back upon his six weeks in charge of Luton with some satisfaction. The Hatters were anchored to the bottom of the First Division when he arrived but they then collected eight of the nine points at stake from his first three games and that has given them a sporting chance of escaping relegation.

One game he will wish to forget, however, is their third round F.A. Cup tie at Grimsby where they were beaten by an amazing 1-7 scoreline.

"To say that it was an inept defensive performance would be kind," he said.

"It was a game that was unbelievably illuminating for me for all the wrong reasons."

In some ways that may be seen as a blessing in disguise, though. The aberration did not cost them valuable League points and it enabled Lawrence to concentrate upon important areas of the team that needed improvement.

But he was not panicked into making wholesale changes. With virtually the same team, Luton won their next two games at home to Southend (3-1) and, more impressively, away to Norwich (1-0).

Steve Davis and Marvin Johnson have been holding the central defensive positions with Julian James and Mitchell Thomas operating at full-back.

Following the departure of goalkeeper Jürgen Sommer to Q.P.R. in August, the position was held for a while by Kelvin Davis.

Ian Feuer was then signed on loan from West Ham with the full transfer being completed for £580,000 in December.

Midfield positions have been occupied by Graham Alexander, Gary Waddock, Scott Oakes and Tony Thorpe.

Paul McLaren has also played in midfield whilst Richard Harvey has been used both in midfield and at left-back.

The versatile David Oldfield has appeared both in attack and midfield and is often included as substitute.

came to a dramatic end, as we have already mentioned, at Grimsby (1-7).

Since losing their place in the old First Division (now the Premiership) in 1992, Luton have lived constantly with the threat of further relegation.

In 1993 they scrambled clear by two points and went similarly close 12 months later.

Last season they looked fairly safe though they put themselves under some pressure by losing their final four matches. They finished in 16th place, 10 points clear of danger.

Exclusively Speaking

By Ian Whittell

RELEGATION-THREATENED Luton are banking on football Houdini Lennie Lawrence as they bid to stay in the first division this season.

The Hatters have not been lower than this league for 26 years but when Lawrence was appointed just before Christmas, the outlook appeared decidedly grim.

But Lawrence's survival c.v. explained chairman David Kohler's decision to hand the hot seat to a boss who made an extraordinary reputation for himself at Charlton in the 1980s.

Not only did Lawrence lift the unfashionable London club into the top flight in 1986 but, even more amazingly, managed to keep them there for four years.

So, after spells of varying success at Middlesbrough and Bradford, Lawrence was a logical choice for the Town board when they parted company with Terry Westley in December.

Lawrence says: "I feel I have come to a club that is right for me. Sitting at the bottom of the league is a very familiar situation for me after all those hard years at Charlton.

"I realise there is a great challenge ahead, just as there was then, but I firmly believe that Luton Town are a club who genuinely belong in the first division.

"The club's facilities, the players here and their tradition all say they should be a first division club.

"There are still plenty of games left, a lot of points to play for, and I feel that gives me something to focus on. I didn't know too much about the squad when I took over but I was happy to dive in at the deep end."

Luton's league performances under Lawrence certainly showed an immediate improvement.

The last nine games of Westley's reign had seen the Hatters win just once. Under Lawrence, Luton won two and drew one of their first three first division outings.

A useful home point from high-flying Huddersfield was followed by a 3-1 home win over Southend and, even more impressive, a 1-0 away win at promotion-chasing Norwich.

Sandwiched in between was an astonishing 7-1 FA Cup defeat at Grimsby which left Lawrence shrugging his shoulders and admitting: "We just met a very good first division side who tore us to pieces."

But that result was almost irrelevant in the context of Luton's and Lawrence's one and only goal for the season - first division survival.

Lawrence says: "It was important to get this show on the road.

"We need an average of a point a game for the rest of the season if we are going to survive and so far we are ahead of schedule.

"Already I feel there is a good spirit at the club and a few more good results and we will be well and truly on our way."

For a manager who was actually in charge of a club when it was formally declared bankrupt and was on the verge of being thrown out of the Football League, this is a fairly minor crisis.

• THE SURVIVOR: Lawrence is looking forward to pull off another of his football Houdini acts by keeping Luton in Division One.

That was the situation Lawrence found himself in when he was in charge of Charlton in the mid-1980s.

But, under Lawrence's shrewd management, Charlton avoided disaster on that occasion and the experience he gleaned from those trying days - plus the job he later performed in lifting Middlesbrough into the Premiership - made him an ideal candidate for the Luton job.

Certainly, his experience of operating on a shoestring - if not non-existent - budget will come in useful.

Lawrence said: "I expect that we will have to sell players before I have the opportunity of buying anyone."

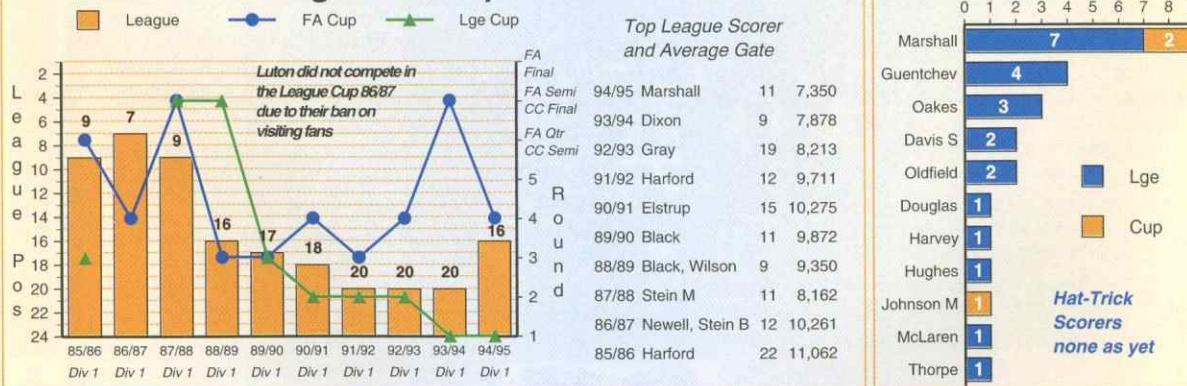

"It's naive to expect us to run out and spend two or three million right now."

"But if you look at the current squad we have here at Kenilworth Road then you must take some real hope that we can get out of the trouble we're in."

ONE on ONE with

David Oldfield

"I have great memories of my time at Leicester. We got beaten in a couple of play-off finals which obviously wasn't much fun, especially as both defeats were through dodgy penalties. It was heartbreaking really."

By Ian Whittell

David Oldfield has a simple double wish for the current season - Luton Town to stay in Division One and Leicester to return to the Premiership.

It is probably just what you would expect to hear from the Aussie midfielder who was always a popular figure during five roller-coaster years with the Foxes.

Oldfield, a £150,000 David Pleat signing in January 1990, went on to play under Gordon Lee, Brian Little and Mark McGhee before returning to his first club Luton last summer.

He was a veteran of the three play-off campaigns that finally ended in success on that famous Wembley afternoon two years ago but now finds himself in a battle of a very different kind at Kenilworth Road.

Oldfield says: "It's been quite a difficult season for us, as you can imagine. We had new players and a new manager last summer and we all took a little bit of time to settle down.

"We obviously didn't win enough games but we all felt a bit sorry for the old manager Terry Westley when he left. He wasn't in the job long, less than six months which you would say, in football terms, is not really long enough to be in a job.

"The chairman had to make a decision, he made it and Lennie Lawrence has come in and done well.

"We still need a good run of results to lift us out of trouble but we have put a bit of a better run together since the new manager took over. He has come in, worked hard and we seem to have had a few results to show for it."

The 27-year-old Aussie still has a vested interest in events at the other end of the First Division, however. Oldfield remains a frequent visitor to Filbert Street and, inevitably, maintains friendships with a number of former team mates.

He says: "I have great memories of my time at Leicester. We got beaten in a couple of play-off finals which obviously wasn't much fun, especially as both defeats were through dodgy penalties. It was heartbreaking really."

"But we had three good seasons which culminated in promotion and, even though I didn't play in the final we won, it was a brilliant experience.

"Football is a strange business and, once you leave one place, you obviously place all your attention on your new club. But they were a great set of lads at Leicester, I still keep in touch with them and look out for their results.

be a threat to Leicester. He has great ability and I think he's destined for good things.

"David Pleat took the three boys with him when he went back to Luton and they will all be looking forward to going back."

"If you told me now that Luton would stay up and Leicester would go up, I'd settle for that. And I think that's a real possibility."

Despite his current club's predicament Oldfield, who also had a brief but successful spell in the top flight with Manchester City, has not abandoned the hope of returning to the Premiership.

"Of course I still want to play in the Premiership, who doesn't?" he says.

"I don't think it's going to happen with Luton, not this season at any rate. But everybody in football is ambitious and I'm no different."

Oldfield, of course, is only one of a number of Luton men who are looking forward to something of a homecoming this afternoon.

The David Pleat connection has seen players like Scott Oakes, Tony Thorpe and Des Linton all swap Filbert Street for Kenilworth Road in recent seasons.

Midfielder Oakes, arguably the most highly-rated of the three, even has his brother Stefan still at Filbert Street as a YTS apprentice.

Oldfield says: "Scott is a very good player, nice feet, quick. He can definitely play and will LIVERPOOL reserve Mark Walters has finally ended his spell on the sidelines with a free transfer to Premiership rivals Southampton.

Liverpool boss Roy Evans said: "It is obviously a good chance for Mark and represented good business for all concerned."

Southampton's director of football Lawrie McMenemy said: "We are pleased to get a player of his quality for free."

Other Reds to leave the Anfield reserve side recently include Nigel Clough (Manchester City) and Jan Molby (loan to Norwich).

QPR keeper Jurgen Sommer has his sights set on an unusual double for 1996 - Premiership survival and an Olympic goal medal.

The Rangers keeper explains: "I have already been chosen in the players' pool for the Olympics in Atlanta this summer.

"The squad is now training in California and it's mainly younger players.

"But you are allowed to include three over-age players and I'm in contention for one of those places.

"It would certainly be a dream to play. It's going to be a massive event and they have already sold just about all the tickets."

ENGLAND will complete their warm-ups for the European Championships with a tour of the Far East that will include games against Hong Kong and China.

The host country already have home friendlies lined up against Bulgaria, Croatia and Hungary in the build-up to the Finals.

England start their tournament against Switzerland on June 8 and the matches with China and Hong Kong will be our first ever against them.

Wales, meanwhile, have been handed the perfect start to their World Cup qualifying campaign.

Bobby Gould's team open with two games against whipping boys San Marino, fixtures that should see the Welsh start the road to France 1998 with two straight wins.

MANCHESTER City manager Alan Ball believes new signing Nigel Clough can be the answer to his team's chronic goalscoring problems. The Blues scored just 13 times in 23 league games before the £1.2 million signing of the Liverpool reserve.

Ball said: "I have seen signs of improvement in our team recently, I am happy with the direction in which we're going.

"Despite all the doom, gloom and panic I am confident that at the end of the season we will be alright.

"Nigel is obviously a quality player. He may not be the quickest player in the game but I have always said the quickest thing in any footballer is his brain.

"I am looking forward to seeing him fit into our pattern of play."

SHEFFIELD Wednesday boss David Pleat has told Irish World Cup star John Sheridan that he can leave Hillsborough. Sheridan has been linked with Manchester City and Derby and has reportedly been unsettled all season.

Pleat said: "If John Sheridan is unsettled then I am pleased, I would not want any player to be happy out of the team. But I can only play 11 men."

CHELSEA striker Mark Hughes has picked up a five-match ban for his recent sending-off at Everton.

The Welsh international striker had only just returned from a two-match suspension when he landed in hot water again for a challenge on defender David Unsworth.

But boss Glenn Hoddle was more concerned with the number of cautions his star has collected for dissent.

He said: "When he has these little battles he also gets involved in little arguments and he has to learn to detach himself from that."

NEWCASTLE'S cultured defender Phillippe Albert had words of advice for team mate David Ginola after his recent controversial sending-off at Arsenal.

Like Ginola, Albert had to make the transition from continental football to the Premiership.

And he said: "David has to live with his shirt being pulled, hard tackles and being booed away from home.

"Lee Dixon didn't play fair but that's the way it is in the Premiership.

"Sometimes I tell him to take care before a match because the right-back is silly or is doing some very hard tackles. If this sort of story works then great, because when he plays there is no one in England can touch him."

Albert, meanwhile, is enjoying life back in the Premiership after making a full recovery from the knee injury which kept him out of action for a year.

"It's great to be back. I had to fight my way back into the team because we have been so successful but that's what you expect here at Newcastle.

"Now I'm in again and I'm determined to stay there and, hopefully, collect a Premiership winners medal."

UEFA performed an embarrassing U-turn and overturned their European ban on Wimbledon and Spurs.

The two Premiership clubs faced a one-year suspension for fielding weakened teams in last summer's controversial Inter Toto Cup.

But delegations from the two London clubs pointed out that they had actually been given permission by the Premier League to field under-strength teams.

The two clubs were fined a total of £170,000 and the penalty will be shared among all Premiership clubs.

Premier League chief executive Rick Parry said: "The lesson we've learned is if we play it again we play it properly."

WORLD-famous explorer Sir Rannulph Fiennes broke new ground when he reached Filbert Street for the first time.

The former SAS hero has charted most of the world's most inaccessible places including both the North and South Pole.

But, despite his international jaunts, this was the first time he had camped out at Filbert Street.

Sir Rannulph (pictured above with his new book) was at the Carling Belvoir Suite as principal speaker to mark the launch of the new Royal Blue Business Club.

DEFENDING champions City face Friar Lane Old Boys in the semi final of the Westerby Challenge Cup later this month.

The tie will be played at the County FA headquarters at Holmes Park Whetstone on Thursday February 29 (ko 7pm).

AN additional performance of soccer play Fever Pitch - featuring former Eastenders star Tom Watt - is to be performed at Filbert Street.

After the Wednesday night performance of February 14 had to be cancelled because of the rearranged home game with Oldham, two shows will now be staged on Thursday 15th.

The first showing will start at 6.30pm with the second performance beginning at 9.30pm.

Anyone who has purchased tickets for the original 8pm show should contact the ticket office to re-schedule their ticket.

The performances on Monday and Tuesday February 12 and 13 remain unaffected.

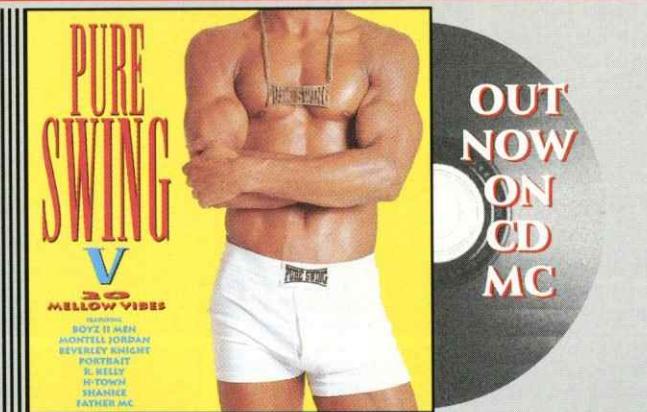

The show - the first to be performed at an English football ground - is part of the Leicester Comedy Festival.

Parker gets new set of Nissan wheels

City skipper Garry Parker has taken delivery of a new set of wheels. Parks' can now be seen driving around in a Nissan Primera supplied by Perry's of Loughborough. Garry is pictured above taking delivery of the vehicle at Filbert Street from Perry's dealer principal Myron Nykolyskyn and sales manager John Hopson.

TODAY'S visit of Luton marks the start of our Wembley play-off final voucher system for this season.

Three games have been designated as 'voucher matches' in which ticket stubs should be retained by supporters.

Fans keeping these vouchers will then be entitled to differing levels of priority in applying for any Wembley final tickets involving City.

The system was successfully introduced for our play-off final against Swindon three seasons ago and was used again two years ago for the Wembley date with Derby County.

Football secretary Ian Silvester said: "We believe this to be the fairest way possible of allocating Wembley tickets.

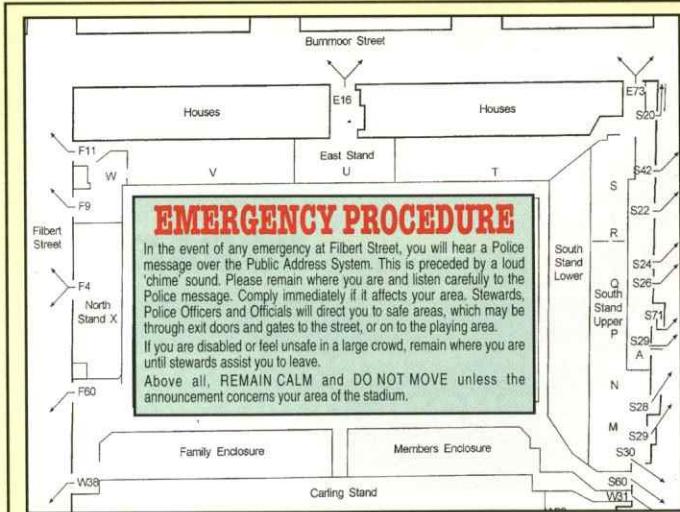

"Although we do not know the exact amount of tickets allocated by the League for a Wembley play-off final it is unlikely to exceed 35,000.

"Experience has taught us that demand for tickets from Leicester supporters would far outweigh the supply.

"So, after season ticket holders and members have had their opportunity voucher holders would then have a priority to purchase tickets, subject to availability of course."

This year's first division Wembley play-off final will take place on Monday May 27. The other two designated play-off matches are against Port Vale on February 17 and Grimsby on March 9.

Inside Stuff

with Paul Mace

GOLF is not something to have been contemplated with much seriousness over the past week given the three three-foot snowdrifts across the Midlands.

But while snow-clearing has been the main occupation recently, City's players have been able to brush up on their golf on the South Coast at Bournemouth.

The players were able to beat the Midlands freeze during a three-day break down South where the region escaped the arctic weather.

And, during a break on the golf course, Simon Grayson and Steve Walsh took the honours.

The duo upset the odds by overcoming hot favourites Lee Philpott and Iwan Roberts (or at least so Simon tells me) at the first play-off hole.

THE exodus to Molineux continues.

After the departures of Mark McGhee, Colin Lee and Mike Hickman to Wolves, a fourth person is crossing over to the Black Country from Filbert Street.

This time, though, it shouldn't provoke quite such a furore.

Leicester Sound sports presenter Andy Pate has been snapped up by Beacon Radio, the commercial radio station for Wolverhampton.

Today is his last day. So, see you again on the 21st, Andy.

RICHARD Smith has a habit of throwing in some teasing answers to his programme fact files.

Two years ago the City defender had us all guessing after revealing he had a tattoo ... but wouldn't tell us where.

Now, in this week's centre spread offering, he tells us of his first drinking session on the roof of a local rugby club.

Again, no clues as to the exact whereabouts.

THERE were probably some relieved players on the South Coast when they learned City's Midland Youth Cup semi final with Notts County was postponed.

That's because they party was due back from Bournemouth on Wednesday morning ... and some could have been facing selection for the reserve trip to Sunderland later that evening.

Bournemouth to Sunderland in one day is some journey by bus.

But, with the youths game 48 hours earlier being cancelled it meant the youngsters were given the chance to shine at Roker Park.

HERE we all are (pictured right)... a real rogues gallery from the Leicester City past.

This was the motley crew of ex-City professionals whom we managed to assemble for our recent Legends evening in the Carling Belvoir Suite.

Frank McLintock was our main speaker although Frank Worthington and Lennie Glover put up a very good support act.

It was great to see so many old faces there and I've been snowed under by the number of people who have come up to me since to say how much they enjoyed the evening.

It was a fantastic atmosphere and I must say how I enjoyed myself after much to-ing and fro-ing in the final few days before the event getting everybody organised.

A quick thanks to Charlie Adam, one of the most senior City professionals in attendance.

He sent me a lovely letter and if I can be as sprightly and alert as him at his age ... then I'll be a happy man.

size I have ever seen.

And, believe it or not, for once the Birch is not joking. That is really true.

Anyway, the manager at that time Jimmy Bloomfield, decided that we should all go up to Woodhouse for a day with the squaddies.

What a day it was. True to form, Alan Woollett pulled a Jane (Jane Russell, rhymes with muscle, geddit) when he heard about what was in store.

But the rest of us trooped up there and spent the morning shinning up ropes, going over walls, crawling under fencing commando style and getting ourselves stuck in icy cold tunnels full of water.

All of us, except one other notable exception. You've guessed it, Frank Worthington. All morning, we couldn't quite work out where Frank had gotten to.

Eventually he turned up at lunchtime saying that he had spent all morning trying to find the place. I ask you.

When he walked in, he was greeted by the sight of all of us wearing the worst gear you could ever imagine to see.

In the morning, all the lads had taken the mick out of these squaddies wearing regulation white shorts and black plimsolls.

The joke was on us because, having got soaked through in the morning, we were forced to wear the regulation army gear for the afternoon session.

To put it mildly, this was not exactly Frank's cup of tea.

So, within a couple of minutes, he was seen to depart in his Mustang car muttering to Jimmy: "I'm an England footballer not a soldier."

around. So, I did a bit of ferreting and eventually found out that he went to this army barracks at Woodhouse.

A real, uncompromising sergeant major there put him through his paces twice a week. One of the 'exercises' included Peter hanging from the wall-bars with lead weights attached to his feet.

You see, when I first arrived here, we never saw much of Peter Shilton at the training ground.

Now, even in those days, Peter had the reputation of being one of the hardest trainers

WELCOME to Luton and, in particular, a big hello to Hatters boss Lennie Lawrence.

Now I don't want to go over the top and sound patronising, but, for me, Lennie's done a fantastic job.

He performed miracles at Charlton in getting them promotion and keeping them up with absolutely no money whatsoever.

He got Middlesbrough promoted as well and I can't help wondering whether Lennie affords himself a wry smile now that Bryan Robson has got so many millions to spend on the likes of Juninho and Nick Barmby.

Now I know that money doesn't guarantee a successful team but it certainly helps. And that makes Lennie's achievements all the more impressive given he's had very little money to spend anywhere. I don't know whether we should be calling our visitors Luton or little Leicester.

Scott Oakes, Des Linton and David Oldfield all played for us here at Filbert Street before moving down the M1 to Kenilworth Road.

It'll be great to see them all back again. And a special word too for young Scott Oakes. His old man Trevor - bass guitarist in Showaddywaddy - has made the odd appearance or two for the City Geriatric Megastar XI.

The best compliment I can give Scott is that thank goodness he and younger brother Stefan - whose a YT here at Filbert Street - didn't inherit their father's footballing talents.

City pulled in two re-arranged Midland Melville Youth League matches in four days - and left manager David Nish with contrasting feelings.

He was "bitterly disappointed" by an unexpected 1-0 home defeat against Port Vale but, "absolutely delighted" with the response in the next game - a crushing 5-0 win away at Peterborough.

The re-scheduled matches conveniently filled in what would otherwise have been a blank two weeks.

In fact the lay-off would have been even longer, because of the postponements of the home League game against Walsall last Saturday and then the Midland Youth League Floodlit Cup semi-final first-leg at Notts County on Monday night.

But after the shock set-back against Vale, Nish must have been wondering whether the timing of the re-arrangements was such a good idea after all.

The two successive away wins over Shrewsbury and Stoke had been the perfect launch to the New Year for City, and revived their hopes of landing the Midland Youth League title.

Victory over Vale would have added even more impetus, but on a hard Belvoir Drive pitch in a biting cold wind, the City youngsters were never at their best, particularly in attack where they missed enough chances to have won the game.

Only once before this season had City failed to score in a League game. That was when they were beaten 2-0 by Aston Villa who have since completed the double over them. Now Vale have followed suit and won both their clashes with City.

Although disappointed by the result Nish had no complaints. "On the day the match could have gone either way but, for once, we didn't take the chances we created.

"That's rare for us because we have scored over 50 goals in our League games. To be fair to Vale they were a well organised and well balanced team, and did a good job. We couldn't complain about being beaten."

Happily City quickly wiped out the memory of this disappointment with a stirring performance three days later at Peterborough.

A delighted Nish said: "It was certainly the perfect way to bounce back from a defeat and I thought we played really well.

"To score five times away from home is tremendous, and there were some excellent goals amongst them."

Stefan Oakes continued his impressive comeback after injury by scoring two of the goals, both of them with headers, while Stuart Campbell celebrated his return with a magnificent strike from a free kick.

Campbell, who had missed the three previous matches with a toe injury, is now the leading goalscorer, edging ahead of Emile Heskey.

The brilliant Heskey has scored 13 goals in just seven appearances, but Nish is now resigned to not having him in the side for the rest of the season.

Heskey's future looks to be at first team level, although Nish may be able to call on him if City reach the final of the Floodlit Cup.

So it looks as though it could be a battle between Campbell and Owen Johnson for the hot-shot award. Although left out at Peterborough, Johnson is only a couple of goals behind Campbell.

Oakes has also run into a hot streak of scoring since returning from a lengthy absence with a thigh injury. He's hit four goals in four games to show he's determined to follow in brother Scott's footsteps.

City's other goal scorers in the win over Posh were Lee Quincey and Stuart Wilson. So despite the set-back against Vale, the chance of a League and Cup double is still on for the City youngsters.

But once again important matches will have to be re-scheduled, including the Cup clash with Notts County. The first-leg at Meadow Lane was scheduled for last Monday with the second-leg at Filbert Street due to be played on Monday March 4.

It's now a case of the clubs agreeing a new date for the first-leg, but that will be influenced by what first team matches County have to fit in as well. But coming up now are two big away League matches for City at West Brom and Birmingham, games they need to win if they are to keep up their title challenge.

INJURY UPDATE ••• INJURY UPDATE

UNFORTUNATELY, we're suffering from an unwanted hat-trick in the treatment room.

No fewer than three players are currently recovering from operations to their left knees - Pontus Kaamark, Scott Taylor and Phil Gee.

Pontus is the most-publicised case. He's now back home in Sweden where he will be convalescing for the next six weeks.

Pontus underwent an operation to reconstruct his anterior cruciate ligament at the Nuffield Hospital last week.

In the operation - very similar to the one undergone by Steve Walsh - a piece of fibre from his hamstring was transferred to make a new ligament inside the knee.

The operation went extremely well with no complications and after two nights in hospital he was allowed to fly home to Sweden.

Pontus' knee has now been put in plaster for two weeks and it is important in the first stages of the recovery that no pressure is put on the knee.

He will be restricted to carrying out 'static quads' during this period - basically straightening the leg.

After the two week period, Pontus will be fitted with a knee brace and, at this stage, will be able to walk with the aid of crutches.

It is vital, though, that no unnecessary pressure is put on the knee at this stage.

Pontus will fly back into England in March when a full rehabilitation programme will be carried out.

Being realistic, Pontus will be sidelined for a considerable while but it should not be too long before we see the return of Scott Taylor.

Scott underwent an operation two weeks ago to clean out his knee. This was done using orthoscopic surgery in which two tubes were placed inside the knee.

Scott had been suffering from an inflamed patella but the problem has now been cleared up.

After an initial period on crutches, Scott has recovered the full range of movement in his knee and we would hope to have him available again inside the next three to four weeks.

Phil Gee is the third of our hat-trick of left knee operations. Phil underwent a cartilage operation two weeks ago.

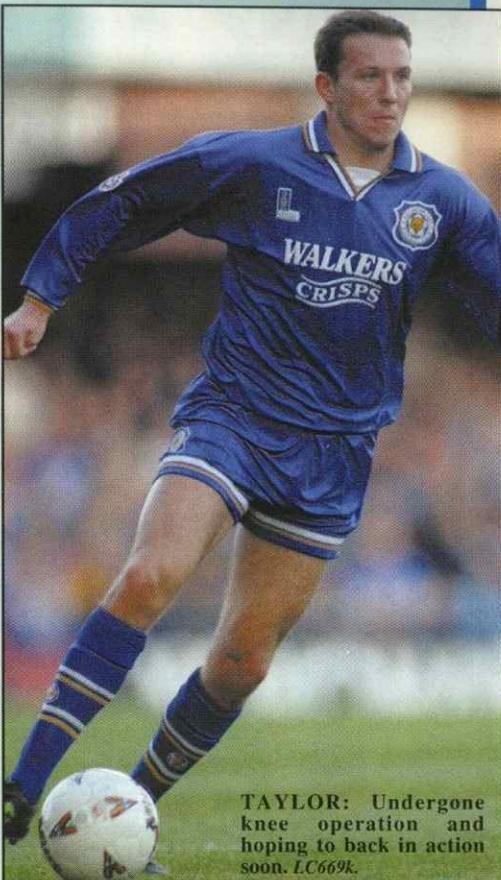

There were no complications and Phil is now making good progress and we hope to have him back before the end of the month.

In all cases, it is fair to say it could be a vastly differing story if these injuries had been sustained more than 10 years ago.

Medical science has made rapid strides and knee injuries in particular have become much more easily treatable as a result of orthoscopic or keyhole surgery.

Not so long ago, simple cartilage operations could sideline players for months and without those advancements injuries such as those suffered by Pontus would be virtually untreatable.

FORMER Leicester defender Terry Fenwick has managed to lift Pompey a few points clear of the relegation zone following a disastrous start to the season.

The South Coast club were rooted to bottom spot in October after a depressing run of seven games without a win.

There was even speculation about Fenwick's future when the club was bought out by a Manchester-based consortium of millionaire businessmen.

But the situation improved dramatically at the start of December with a run of four straight wins.

Oldham, Tranmere, Luton and Norwich were all beaten for a total of 12 priceless points and much was due to former Arsenal winger Jimmy Carter.

Carter has been unsettled at Fratton Park and at one stage even had a transfer request granted.

But his match-winning performances, including a number of important goals, has convinced both parties to settle their differences and Carter is now with Pompey to stay.

Former Pompey favourite Paul Walsh is back from Manchester City and performing OLDHAM'S main problem in recent weeks has been easy to identify - a distinct lack of goals.

But a 2-1 FA Cup replay win over Pennine rivals Barnsley brought to an end a depressing run of five games without a goal and left Latics boss Graeme Sharp planning for a successful 1996.

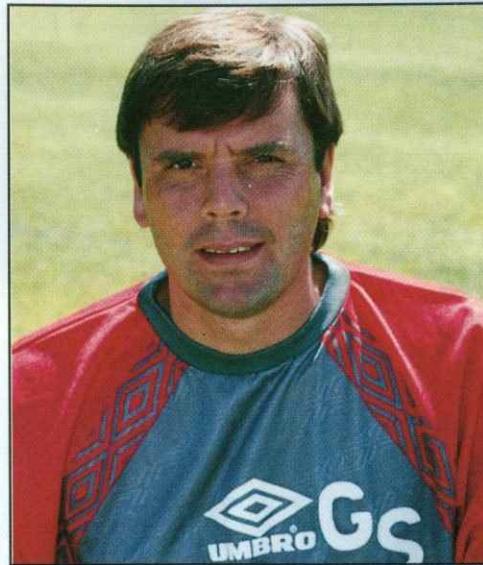

Sharp certainly had no trouble finding the net himself during a glorious career with Everton.

But, following an impressive 4-0 home win over Birmingham in mid-December, his players became inexplicably goal shy as they churned out three goalless draws and two defeats.

Sharp said: "It's no use worrying about what might have been. The players just have to be positive in front of goal."

Sharp gambled in the replay and called up Darren Beckford for only his fourth start in two injury-hit seasons. The striker responded with both goals.

PORT VALE

Filbert Street, Saturday February 17th (Ko 3.00pm)

THE storm clouds have been clearing over long-serving Vale boss John Rudge in recent months at the great survivor keeps battling on.

Rudge has worked wonders in more than 12 years in charge of the Potteries club.

He is second only to Crewe's Dario Gradi, and only by a matter of months, in terms of long service among current league bosses.

Boardroom unrest at Vale Park has placed question marks over his long-term future recently.

But the man who has single-handedly lifted the unfashionable club from the bottom of the Fourth Division to respectability is still doing a tremendous job.

After being rooted to bottom spot for much of the season, Vale enjoyed a spectacular December in which they won five games and lost just once, a narrow 2-1 defeat at Southend.

The damage has been done by strikers Lee Mills and Tony Naylor as well as midfield goal production from former Newcastle winger Steve Guppy and Andy Porter.

The improvement was carried over into the New Year as Vale clawed their way out of the relegation places. And Vale have also maintained an interest in the FA Cup after restricting holders Everton to a replay in their fourth round tie.

A last-minute equaliser from Ian Bogie earned them a 1-1 draw at Goodison Park to bring Everton back to Vale Park later this week.

City fans are reminded this is the second in a series of three voucher games which will be used to establish ticket priority if the club is involved in a Wembley play-off final at the end of the season.

Supporters are asked to retain their ticket stubs which will act as a voucher.

DOWN MEMORY LANE - CITY v LUTON TOWN

September 1 1979:

City 1 (May)

Luton 3 (Moss 2 (1 pen), Hill)

CITY had started the season in fine style, leading the chart after just three matches, but this was the afternoon that brought Jock Wallace's team back to earth with a bang.

The game was featured on BBC Match of the Day, having been chosen at barely 48 hours notice.

This had come about due to the death of Lord Mountbatten and the need to re-route the cameras in readiness for the funeral coverage. David Moss, regularly a thorn in City's side over the years, put the Hatters ahead with a 12th minute spot-kick and Ricky Hill, later to move to Filbert Street, doubled the lead after half an hour.

After that, City were always chasing the game and eventually slipped to third place as a consequence.

The Wallace juggernaut was soon back on the track, however, but without the hapless Gregor Stevens, who headed back to Scotland after this defeat after patently failing to settle in his six outings for the club.

EASTER Tuesday heralded the first ever top flight meeting of the clubs and saw City teetering perilously on the brink of relegation in 19th place, whereas the Hatters sat proudly in the top six.

The day before, left winger Tony Gregory had netted twice to earn Luton maximum points when City visited Kenilworth Road, but this time City were determined to take the spoils.

A bumper 32,480 crowd were rewarded by a gritty home performance in which the darling of Filbert Street, Arthur Rowley, bagged a brace to take his total of League goals for the club to 250.

Little did the fans know then that 'The Gunner' would only ever make two further appearances for Leicester.

The win would prove vital for City who escaped relegation with just one point to spare.

MEMORABLE CHARACTERS

THERE are few players who aspire to having a fixture remembered solely for their personal contribution, but whenever the older generation at Leicester talk of 'Rodney Fern's match' then thoughts immediately focus on an Easter Monday at Kenilworth Road.

City led Division Two and came into the game with four successive clean sheets behind them.

Luton were also challenging for promotion and looked to provide formidable opposition.

When John Sjoberg put through his own goal in the opening minutes City feared the worst, but the remainder of the afternoon was given over to a virtuoso display from Fern to steer the visitors to a 3-1 victory.

Rod had actually played in the same local team as David Nish and was already established as a City favourite long before his Easter parade.

He scored 40 goals for City in 187 outings before a £45,000 move to Luton. He played in City's famous Cup win at Kenilworth Road in 1974, where he came close to an early goal that might have drastically rewritten the script and later moved on to Chesterfield and Rotherham.

He retired in 1983 with 124 league goals to his credit.

An A to Z of Leicester City with Dave Smith and Paul Taylor

When it comes to Irish internationals there are three categories to consider, for the North and the Republic did not become two distinct teams until 1926.

Prior to that there was one single international team representing Ireland.

Leicester's first Irish cap was right-back Mick Cochrane, who collected the last of his eight caps against Scotland in 1901 whilst on Fosse's books.

The only other player to represent the United Ireland team was defender Mick O'Brien who won four caps in 1922 and 1924.

Later Mick, one of the game's early characters, went on to captain the newly formed Republic team four times between 1928 and 1932, whilst on the books of four different clubs!

City number three Republic of Ireland internationals amongst their ranks over the years.

First came goalkeeper Tom Godwin in 1950 and 1951 with four caps, then more recently striker David Kelly, who collected seven of his caps, and three goals, during his Filbert Street sojourn, and current defender Brian Carey, who has added one extra cap to his collection whilst with the Foxes.

A total of six City stalwarts have represented Northern Ireland to date.

Full back Bill Cunningham won 23 caps between 1956 and 1960, making him the then most capped player for the club.

Next to wear the emerald green of Ulster came another outsize character, Derek Dougan, whose eight caps and one goal during his stay at Filbert Street definitely resurrected an ailing international career that eventually amounted to 43 caps in total.

Currently, City's most capped player is John O'Neill, who represented the full Northern Ireland team 39 times between 1980 and 1986, scoring just once.

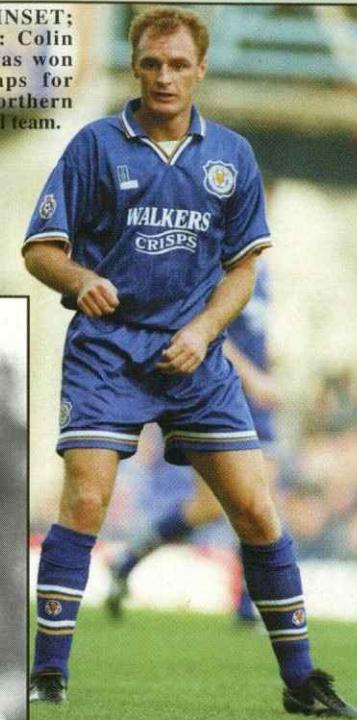

Dynamic midfielder Paul Ramsey was selected 14 times

O'NEILL: City's most capped player with 39 full Northern Ireland caps.

HILL: Colin Hill has won six caps for the Northern Ireland team.

IRISH INTERNATIONALS

for the province from 1984 to 1989, whilst Jimmy Quinn ran up four appearances during his solitary Filbert Street season.

Current squad member Colin Hill finally added to his total of caps with a couple of outings last season, after regularly having to withdraw from the squad due to injury, and has been an automatic choice again this term.

At B level, David Kelly had two outings for the Republic as a City player, netting three goals.

Our only Under-23 cap was won by Gerry McCaffrey for the North in 1962-63, despite the fact that he never made a senior appearance for the club.

At Under-21 level, we can boast one player for each side of the border, John O'Neill for the Ulstermen and Martin Russell for Eire.

Youth internationals are more commonplace, though the only ones to reach first team status for the club have been Tony Brien, Gary Fitzpatrick, Robert Kelly and Joe Waters, who all represented the Republic.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Barrie Pierpoint

HOPEFULLY you will now have had the opportunity to take advantage of our new improved service from our ticket office.

The Unix Arena computer system has been installed at Filbert Street and has been very well received by supporters.

The system enables us to process your ticket requests significantly more quickly, thereby cutting down on queuing time.

The system went live earlier this week and the introduction of the computers has co-incided with longer opening hours of the office.

To make it easier for you to purchase tickets, the Filbert Street ticket office will be open for 12 hours from 8am until 8pm on a Friday before a weekend match.

The ticket office will be open to both personal callers and for supporters wishing to make credit card bookings over the phone.

The new system and longer hours co-incided with new-style thermally sealed match tickets which you may well have noticed for today's game with Luton.

The new system, however, has not gone fully live yet. We are currently awaiting a piece of software to enable us to use the system for telephone credit card bookings.

This will then enable us to process your request inside a minute - four times quicker than we currently can.

The system is also to be introduced at our ticket office at our Churchgate Fox Leisure store.

The ticket office section has now been moved downstairs and we plan to go live with the system later this week.

Remember, though, that only home tickets can be purchased from Churchgate.

I'M sure many of you will have worked out by now that our re-arranged game against Oldham Athletic will take place on Valentine's Day night at Filbert Street.

I hope it doesn't affect your plans too much but, to mark the occasion, we've got some special prizes to give away as part of a ladies night promotion.

So, bring down your partner and you might win one of a series of great gifts we have on offer to be won.

Our Blue Army Bonanza matchday lottery has been expanded to include a series of suitable gifts as well as the usual cash prizes.

So for the price of 50p you can find yourself with a bottle of champagne, a meal for two, chocolates and lots of other gifts.

The draw will be made at half time and the winners can collect their gifts immediately after the game.

A BLUE Cross sale has been introduced at our Fox Leisure stores in Filbert Street and Churchgate.

WELCOME A GUEST "TEAM" TO FILBERT STREET

We've had the opportunity to do plenty of talking this week during a three-day break on the South Coast.

But now the talking has to stop. It's time for action and today's clash with Luton should show whether we have what it takes to storm back into the promotion race.

We all believe we have - and we are determined to prove it. The last couple of months haven't been very productive, and we know that unless we improve, promotion will pass us by.

And how to improve has been the central topic of conversation during our stay in Bournemouth.

The trip provided a pleasant and relaxing few days away from our normal routine - and the weather down there was a bit better as well.

Some of the lads actually managed a couple of rounds of golf and most of us have spent a lot of time swimming. Not in the sea, I hasten to add, but in the hotel pool.

The milder weather also enabled us to do some light training before we got down to the more serious stuff when we returned home on Wednesday.

But the real point of the break was for everyone to re-group, re-charge the batteries and focus on what lies ahead in the remainder of the season.

It also provided the chance for our new gaffer to get to know us all a bit better and for us to get to know him, because since Mark McGhee left just before Christmas, it's been a hectic time for everyone.

So, with no match last Saturday, this was the chance for all of us to get together in a calmer, more relaxed atmosphere and talk things over.

It all seemed to go very well, although only time will tell how well. But all the players were able to have a chat with the gaffer at some stage, while he was able to put over his ideas and explain what he expects from us and how he wants us to play.

I think we were all agreed on one thing. Everyone is desperate to do well and as determined as ever to secure promotion to the Premiership.

So, the sooner we get a win under our belts again the better. The gaffer has been in charge now for six games and we have yet to win a match for him.

As he points out, you can only enjoy yourself in football when you are winning. Results mean everything - and he doesn't like losing. That goes for the rest of us as well, and we know that one win in our last 10 League matches is simply not good enough.

We have to turn things round and string together a good run of results. That's why getting that first win for the new manager is so vital. It could trigger things off and help us relax that little bit more and play the sort of football we know we can.

So today's match with Luton is a big one for us. We haven't won here at Filbert Street since the Norwich game back in December, and we have only won four League matches at home all season.

Although Luton are near the bottom of the table, it's certainly not going to be an easy match by any means. They have picked up under their new boss Lennie Lawrence and will be boosted by that important win over Sheffield United on Wednesday night.

I thought they played well against us earlier in the season at Kenilworth

Parker's

Road when we were lucky to pick up a point in a 1-1 draw.

And this afternoon they will be wanting the points just as much as we do. I expect it to be a tough old battle.

During our stay in Bournemouth we examined and talked about the next four matches coming up...Luton, Portsmouth (away) Oldham and Port Vale.

And with all due respect to those four teams, we believe they are games from which we are capable of picking up points. We see this spell as the ideal opportunity for us to get ourselves back on track-and back into the promotion picture again.

Our target has to be 10 points from the four matches, which means we have to win three of them. It would be nice to get the first of those victories under our belts today.

Despite the poor run we have had of late and the upheaval caused by the backroom changes, I can assure all the fans that the spirit in the side is as good as ever. That's never changed all season.

It's out on the field where we are letting ourselves down by making mistakes in the final third of the pitch.

We are still conceding some sloppy goals and, in recent games, have not been making that many chances and then missing those that we do create.

It's those sort of things we have chatted about this week and discussed how we can put them right. We will just have to see if we have come up with the answer.

I think the gaffer is looking to make a few minor adjustments to the way Mark McGhee had us playing although, basically, he still wants us to pass the ball around.

There's no doubt though, that teams have sussed out the way we play and made plans to stop us. Because we like to keep possession they drop back, let us have the ball and allow us to pass it around in front of them which doesn't really cause them much damage.

Without reverting to the long ball upfield, I think we need to play the ball a bit quicker to the front men on occasions. That's something else we have been talking about as well.

So it has been an examination of the way we play, and how we want to play. Everyone has their own ideas, but the input can only help. The main thing is that we are all together and all striving for the same goal.

There's a long way to go yet and I'm certain that, at the very least, we will be in the play-offs. And if we put a good run together there is every chance we can still finish in the top two.

We have 20 games left and the target is 41 points from them. I know it's asking a lot, but it is possible. If we achieve it we will have a total of 80 points and that should be enough to guarantee an automatic promotion spot.

The break this week has helped us relax, unwind and plan ahead. Now it's down to business.

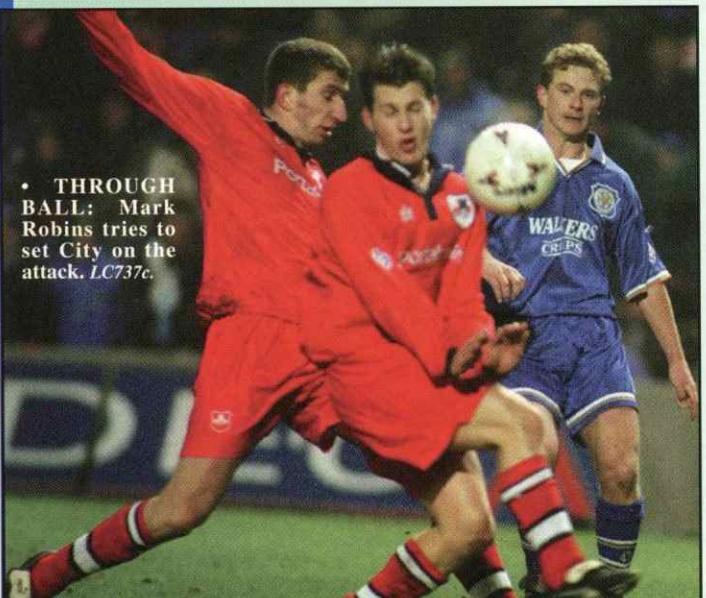

I am pleased to welcome our Matchball sponsors for this afternoon's game who are Rhino Design & Advertising. I hope they enjoy the game.

Pontins League ROUND-UP

with Paul Franklin and Steve Walford

Young winger Neil Lewis, out in the cold for much of this season, has been handed a confidence booster by City coach Steve Walford.

After watching Lewis produce a sparkling performance in the recent Pontins League win over York, Walford said: "The lad has bags of ability and the potential to go a long way in the game."

The skillful and exciting Lewis has always been something of an enigma with former bosses, Brian Little and Mark McGhee, never quite sure whether to use him as a left back, left sided midfield player or an out and out winger.

Now Martin O'Neill and his coaches, Paul Franklin and Walford, are hoping to tap the Lewis potential and turn him into the high class player many forecast he would become.

Says Walford: "We certainly have high hopes for him. I have seen many players with far less talent than he has, make it to the top level.

"He has so much natural ability, good pace, a great first touch and beats defenders for fun. And his left foot is nearly as good as mine used to be.

"His problem is that there are spells when he seems to lose concentration and switch off. He should do better for longer periods in games than he does.

"But the skill is definitely there, and he could develop into a very exciting player indeed if he works on the other parts of his game. It's up to him, but it would be a great shame to see so much talent go to waste."

Lewis was only one of several players who impressed in the convincing victory over York. Strikers Mark Robins and Emile Heskey teamed up to form a formidable partnership with Robins scoring two goals and Heskey one.

Walford was full of praise for the attitude and commitment of Robins.

"With the team we put out we would have expected to beat York, but that all depends on the attitude shown by the players on the night.

"In our previous game I know that Paul Franklin had been disappointed by the attitude and commitment, but on this occasion it could not have been better. Robins I thought was outstanding in this respect.

"It was a bitterly cold night and conditions were not easy. But we adapted well and Mark looked a class act. He worked really hard and took his goals well. He has a lot of ability-there's no doubt about that.

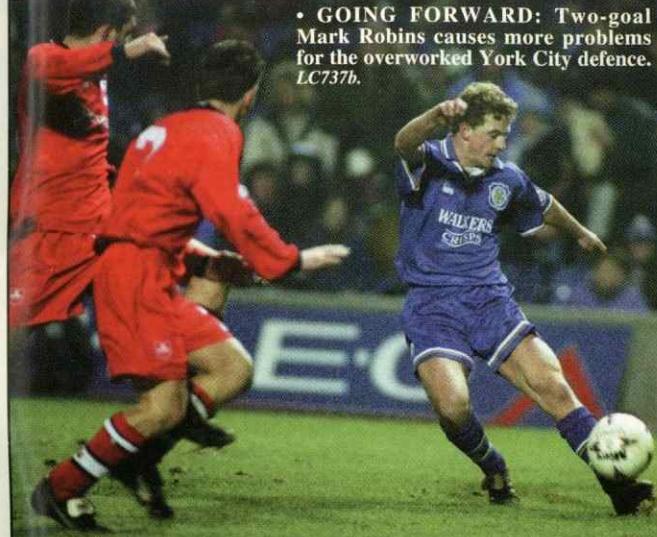

"So has Emile. He's still only a kid but he's so strong and powerful and shows a good awareness of what is required. We put out a strong side on the night and there would have been something sadly amiss had we not won.

"But there will be a few occasions between now and the end of the season, when we will be fielding a reserve team mostly made up of youth team players. We need to do that to enable us to assess the youngsters we have here, because soon we shall have to make decisions on who we keep on for next season."

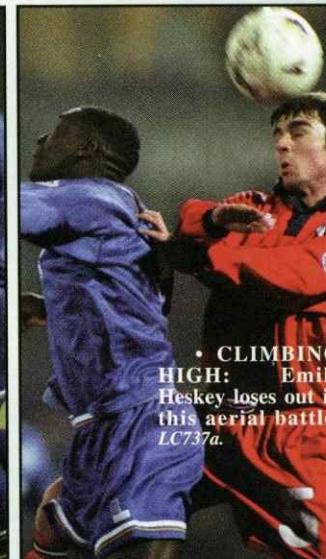

And on Wednesday night this week the reserve

• WELL DONE: Mark Robins is congratulated by fellow team mates for scoring his second goal. LC737h.

• CLIMBING HIGH: Emile Heskey loses out in this aerial battle. LC737a.

team City sent to Roker Park was a side consisting mainly of youth team players. There was only Zeljko Kalac, Jimmy Willis, Sam McMahon and Jamie Lawrence from the senior squad.

City were beaten 2-0 but Franklin said: "It is very rare you can say you are pleased after a defeat, but this was one of those occasions.

"I was delighted with the way the kids played and I thoroughly enjoyed the match. The attitude was first class and if this is an example of the quality of the youngsters we have at the club the future looks very bright indeed.

"I was particularly impressed with left-back Martin Fox and central defender Guy Branston. Both of them had excellent games."

Franklin also had a special mention for young midfielder McMahon who had been with the first team squad on the three day break at Bournemouth.

Said Franklin: "We left Bournemouth at around 9.30 on Wednesday morning, arrived back at Filbert Street at lunch time and then myself and Sam stayed on the coach to continue on the journey to Sunderland for the game.

"Sam was the only one from the Bournemouth party to be involved and he did well to stay awake let alone anything else."
